Business Poll Favors Closing TB Hospital

C of C Adopts MemberViews, For Transfer

The Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital should be closed. this was the opinion expressed by businessmen this week in response to a questionnaire distributed by the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce. In the survey of its membership, the chamber learned that over 90 per cent of those responding to the question agreed that the present T.B. hospital had outlived its effective usefulness.

The questionnaire, accompanied by a summary of a report given at the last meeting of the chamber's Local Governmental Affairs Committee by Dr. Vernon B. Link, Ulster County Health Commissioner, asked two questions. First, it asked if the respondent favored closing the present T. B. hospital. Next, the respondent was asked if he favored development of comprehensive, modern health facilities either as outlined in Dr. Link's report or by the Citizens Survey Committee report.

Favor Comprehensive Facility

Local Governmental Affairs Committee Chairman, Dr. Jeremiah Sachs, said that the Citizens Survey had looked into the question of the T.B. Hospital in its report, made public last Fall. In that report, several specific recommendations were made. Dr. Sachs noted that a copy of the Citizens Survey Report was available either from the Chamber of Commerce or from the Ulster County Community Chest. Of those replies received thus far, Dr. Sachs indicated that 91 per cent favored development of new, modern, comprehensive health care facilities as recommended.

In its meeting Tuesday night, the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce voted to adopt the recommendations of its membership in a motion urging the prompt closing of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital at Golden Hill, transferring the few remaining T.B. patients to the State Hospital at Oneonta.

In a second motion, the board concurred with recommendation No. 10 of the Health and Medical Services portion of the Citizens Survey Report which specifies that: "the chest clinic would continue to operate at this location (Golden Hill) as at present." It was noted by Dr. Link in his report to the committee that the clinic processes 8,000-10,000 persons per year at a cost significantly lower than that available through other sources.

Supports Supervisor Action

In a final motion on the subject, the Chamber's Board of Directors supported the action at last Thursday's meeting of the Board of Supervisors wherein a motion was carried directing the county to file with the State, a letter of intent to construct a new infirmary financed by County, State and Federal funds. In that motion by the chamber's board of Directors, it was specified that the present facility at Golden Hill should be utilized for the care of welfare and other patients to the fullest extent possible in the interim period and that the savings realized therefrom should be applied toward the County's share in the cost of the new facility to be built in the next three to five years.

In other action at last night's meeting of the board of directors, the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce was presented with a certificate formalizing a long-standing agreement between the Chamber and the U. S. Department of Commerce. The certificate designated the local chamber as a cooperative office of the U. S. Department of Commerce. Signed by the recently-resigned Secretary, John T. Connor, the certificate reads: "by mutual agreement, this organization has been designated to make available to the business public the trade promotional services, information and facilities both domestic and international, of the United States Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C."

Pledges Cooperation

In his letter which accompanied the certificate, Secretary Connor said that he appreciated the participation of the Chamber in this program and expressed the hope that the joint effort of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce and the Department of Commerce can do much to maintain economic stability and stimulate growth of business in Kingston and throughout the nation.

In accepting the certificate, Chamber President George Svirsky acknowledged the long-standing agreement of cooperation between the two agencies. He pledged the continuing cooperation of the Kingston area businessmen in improving the economic climate of the nation.

UNANIMOUS ABOUT RESORT PLAN—The publicity committee of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors has agreed to partially subsidize a resort promotion program designed to bring vacationists and tourists to the area. Meeting to examine the resort program are seated (l-r) Thaddeus Musialkiewicz, chairman of the committee; Michael Starkman, account supervisor for Valley Advertising Agency, Inc., Charles Relyea, chairman of the board. Standing in the usual order are Michael Canosa, Town of Marlboro; Gerard DeFelicis, Rosendale; Roger Mabie, Esopus and Clarence C. Raichle, 12th Ward, Kingston. (Reynolds photo.) Story on Page 41.

Supervisors Set Meet Thursday On Tax Base Plan

"In 1776 'taxation without representation' sparked a revolution. In 1967 in Ulster we find that taxation without equal representation to be in existance here in Ulster County," says a joint committee report filed by the Industrial Development and Tax Base Study committees with the board of supervisors.

Members of the joint committee have requested Chairman Charles Relyea to call a special meeting of the Board at the earliest possible time to discuss property equalization matters in detail.

The special meeting has been scheduled for Thursday, March 23 at 8 p. m.

Arrangements will be made to have representatives of property mapping and appraisal firms present at the meeting.

Chairman Charles Penny (R), Shawangunk, and Chairman Clarence C. Raichle (R), 12th Ward, and members of the two committees in a report of February 9, to the board pointed out the need for action by the board on approval of a plan for equalization of taxes in the county and recommended preparation of property maps and the undertaking of a reappraisal program for the county.

Pointing out that the county has increased in population by 50 per cent in the past 15 years, the urgency of a study of the tax base and plans for reappraisal of all property was brought to the attention of the County Board of Supervisors.

In the February report the joint committee presented a plan for an aerial survey of the county and preparation of a property mapping program, together with costs.

Calling for action toward the correction of tax inequities, the Joint Committee report to the Board of Supervisors notes that the present property tax inequities between municipalities "discourages economical and effcient development of inter-municipal services."

"We, as supervisors, have authorized county water, sewer and refuse disposal studies be prepared. The recommendations that come out of these studies should point out the most economical and efficient ways to provide basic services, but we are afraid the recommendations will be impossible to put into being

Center of 'Beautiful Rondout'

Council to Get Partial City Hall Data Monday

A seven man Common Council committee dealing with Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan's proposed building of a new city hall on a downtown urban renewal tract expects to have a full report by May and is due to give a partial report at a recessed Council meeting next week, Alderman Joseph Epstein (D) Sixth Ward, committee chairman, said today.

Full Discussion First

Plans are to be discussed in full detail before the committee is ready for a final report, Epstein emphasized.

However, he said, discussion at a Tuesday night committee meeting indicated realization among its members that a "beautiful Rondout" could be built around the proposed city hall and the plaza in which it would be built.

A possibility of increasing acreage around the proposed building and there appears to be sentiment for using a six-acre tract, instead of the presently proposed one of 2½ acres.

This along with details dealing with the nature and design of the building are to studied in detail before a final report. Another committee meeting is scheduled for next week and others will be held in the weeks thereafter, Epstein said.

Freeman Had Layout

A picture layout, mostly showing interior areas of the present city hall, was featured in Tuesday night's Freeman, and some showed that the building bears signs of the fact it is 92 years old. Parking and traffic congestion on the outside were also noted.

Mayor Garraghan has indicated that by present estimates the new city hall would cost some $400,000 and the annual charge against the city to cover a 25-year bond issue would be $14,000. The present building completed in 1875 cost $75,000, and changes a few years later cost $20,000. The building was renovated after a damaging 1927 fire.

Preliminary sketches to indicate the scope of the development are on file in the city clerk's office, City Hall.

Other Committee Members

The other members of the council's city hall committee are Robert Gallo (D) Ninth Ward; Raymond Armater (R) 11th Ward; Majority Leader James F. Howard (D) 10th Ward, and Robert C. Schantz (R) Second Ward; Minority Leader John Machione (R) 12th Ward; William G. Davis (D-Lib) 13th Ward, and John J. Naccarato (R) Third Ward.

The recessed Common Council meeting due to be held early next week is to deal mainly with legislation affecting urban renewal. Alderman-at-Large Francis R. Koenig said today it is tentatively called for Monday, but the date could be changed.

Put Off Open School Meeting Until March 20

An open meeting scheduled for tonight on the proposed establishment of an independent secondary school in the Kingston area has been postponed until Monday, March 20, it was learned today.

George V. Hutton, one of the steering committee members, said the postponment was decided upon in view of another late winter storm dumping from between 4 and 8 inches of snow on the Kingston and Ulster County sections

"We realized that due to the storm responses to the meeting would be limited so we have decided to put the meeting off until the 20th," Hutton told The Freeman.

Next week's meeting is again slated for Gov. Clinton Hotel and starting at 8 p. m.

Leonard E. Opdycke, headmaster of the Poughkeepsie Day School, who was scheduled to address tonight's meeting, is expected to be on hand next week. His topic was billed as educational advantages gained through such a school.

Other steering committee members include Howard C. St. John, Robert H. Courtney, Robert E. Davis and Robert S. Yallum.

All interested in the proposed school have again been invited to the March 20 meeting.

Denials Adding Fuel To LBJ-Bobby Fracas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Denials by the White House and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of a cuss-word confrontation on Vietnam between President Johnson and the senator Feb. 6 have heightened their hostility.

Swap Accusations

Each camp privately was accusing members of the other today of leaking distorted information that made both the President and the New York Democrat look bad.

Some of the President's associates were ready to blame the senator's men for the version of the encounter that Time magazine pieced together.

The senator's associates noted that three of the four persons present at the White House session — after Kennedy returned from a European tour during which there was much talk that he was bringing home a peace feeler — were administration officials.

The four were the President, Kennedy, Undersecretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach — a former Kennedy associate—and presidential assistant Walt W. Rostow.

Rostow and Kennedy denied separately that the tone and the particulars of the meeting depicted by Time were accurate.

Warning on Future

Time said Johnson castigated Kennedy for his criticism of the President's Vietnam policies. It sad Johnson told the senator. "If you keep talking like this, you won't have a political future in this country within six months. In six months, all you doves will be destroyed."

Time said Kennedy replied by calling Johnson an s.o.b., adding, "I don't have to sit here and take that—."

Kennedy backed up White House press secretary George Christian's denial that Johnson told Kennedy he never wanted to see him again.

In an interview Tuesday, Kennedy gave these answers to questions:

Q. Did either you or the President use any swear words?

A. No.

Q. Did he accuse you of upsetting peace negotiations because of reports you were bringing home a peace feeler?

A. No.

Q. Did he say he never wanted to talk to you againh

A. No.

Q. Did he say you didn't have a political future because of the stand you have taken?

A. I don't want to talk about that.

Q. Did he say you would have the blood of American boys on your hands if secret peace negotiations were upset?

A. Not in that context, but I don't want to talk about that.

There was no attempt by Kennedy to discount the fact that the meeting with Johnson had been stormy. But he said it had not been nearly so explosive as was depicted.

He and Johnson shook hands last week at the swearing in of Ramsey Clark as attorney general.

The senator's associates said it was inconceivable that Kennedy would use any gutter word in addressing the President.

"You don't talk to a president in language like that," one said. It would not fit the senator's backers' efforts to erase the tough hatchet-man image that grew up around Kennedy in earlier years.

Shrug Off Quotation

In the Kennedy camp, the contention also was that Johnson was talking generally about the future of the "doves" and not specifically of Ksnnedy, who has said he will support the President's expected bid for a second elective term next year.

The "blood on your hands" quotation, reported in other quarters, was shrugged off as applying to anyone who might make it more difficult to get peace talks started rather than being directed specifically to Kennedy.

4-8 Inch Fall Due

Winter Refuses To Let Up Grip

An unpredicted snowstorm that started in the area after 6 a. m. puzzled board of public works officials and covered the county highways and city streets with upwards of four inches of snow.

Amounts Vary

A second revised forecast before noon reported snow ending late tonight tapering off to rain and sleet with an accumulation of four to eight inches. A report from the Stone Ridge and High Falls sections of the county noted that seven inches of snow had blanketed that area before noon. Eight inches were reported near Highland and between six and seven inches in the Ellenville area.

Authorities reported driving conditions were poor. Many motorists who failed to use extreme caution found themselves stalled in ditches and fields after their cars skidded on extremely slippery pavement.

Crews Out Early

The Kingston Department of Public Works ordered salt and sand crews out shortly after the snow began to pile. A department spokesman said all main streets in the city were salted and crews were working along the side streets to elminate slipperty conditions. Plows were ordered out in the county.

Slippery conditions prevailed in most parts of the area causing hazardous driving conditions and slowing traffic.

Part of T-Way Icy

A spokesman for the State Thruway reported that at 11:30 a. m. rain mixed with snow and sleet caused icy conditions on the super highway between New York City and New Paltz. From New Paltz to Albany snow is reported and from Albany west to Buffalo the highway was clear with patches of fog and cautious driving was advised.

The Thruway spokesman said many automobiles had skidded off the super highway and had to be towed back. No serious accidents had been reporter prior to 11:40 a. m.

Today's blanket, coming on the heels of last Tuesday's 14-inch fall, wasn't easy to take, especially realizing that spring will begin next Tuesday, March 21.

IBM Plans Plant In Florida, Area Man to Be Head

BOCA RATON,Fla., — International Business Machines Corporation will build a 300,000 square foot manufacturing plant in southeast Florida, it was announced today by Thomas J. Watson Jr., IBM chairman of the board.

Construction will be on 550 acres purchased last November in University Park, Palm Beach County. The property is three miles from downtown Boca Raton and adjacent to Florida Atlantic University.

150 From Other Plants

The new plant's general manager will be Howard L. Davidson, formerly a manufacturing executive at IBM's East Fishkill plant. It is expected that about 400 IBM employees will be located at University Park by the end of this year. Some 250 of them are expected to be hired locally, with the balance coming from existing IBM locations. To permit operations to begin prior to completion of the plant. IBM will lease temporary space in the area.

In making the announcement, Watson said, 'IBM has long been interested in establishing a manufacturing facility in South Florida. The University Park site is very well suited to our kind of specialized electronics production, and the area is most attractive as a place for our people to live."

The new facility will be operated by the company's Systems Manufacturing Division and will produce the System/360 Model 20 computer. System/360 is IBM's comprehensive computing system that spans almost the entire range of customer requirements for both scientific and commercial applications. Model 20, a moderate-cost system, has received unusually wide customer acceptance.

Second for State

The facility, which will include a plant and a warehouse, is the second IBM manufacturing facility to be located in Florida. Last summer the company began engineering and production operations in a leased building at Oakland Park, near Ft. Lauderdale. The facility is presently occupied by some 75 employes of IBM's Production Systems Department, which produces and markets an automatic assembly system for use in mass-production industries.

Watson noted that IBM will have about 2,100 employes in Florida by the end of the year This includes the NASA support group at Cape Kennedy; marketing and service personnel in IBM offices in Jacksonville, Miami, Orlando, Tallahassee and

College Work Lags, EyeMay Completion

A further extension of time for completion of Phase I of the Ulster County Community College at Stone Ridge will be required. This fact was disclosed in the monthly report filed this week by Augustus R. Schrowang Associates, architects for the project.

Construction on all phases of the college is behind schedule but, Schrowang said Tuesday, it is expected the four buildings included in Phase I will be completed in May.

Under the schedule for completion of work, the contract for construction of the library by the Robie Construction Corp. is actually 79 per cent completed. The present completion schedule calls for 96.1 per cent completion as of this date.

Work on the Business Studies building, also being done by Robie Construction Corp., is 86 per cent completed. Under the schedule for the job it should be 96.5 per cent completed since 91 per cent of the construction days have elapsed.

The general contract for the All-Purpose Building, held by Larsen, Swart and Larsen, local contractors, is 90 per cent completed, while at this time the work schedule calls for 97.2 per cent completion.

Work on the Science Building for which the general contract is held by Robie Construction Corporation, is 83 per cent completed. The work schedule at this time calls for 97.1 per cent of the work completed.

The plumbing, heating and electrical contracts, which can only be carried out as the General Contracts move forward, are also behind schedule.

Bank Brothers, who have the plumbing contract have completed 91 per cent of the plumbing work. Tougher Heating heating contractor, has completed 76 per cent of the work and Joe E. O'Connor, electrical contractor, has completed 66 per cent of the electrical work.

Under the overall completion schedule for the project 96.6 per cent of the entire job should be completed as of this date. The architects report that at present 82 per cent of the job is actually completed.

In the progress report on completion of the first four buildings of the college complex, the architect reports the contract completion date originally set was February 6 and the present anticipated completion date is April 18, 1967. It is now anticipated that this April date will have to be further extended.

Bids will be received next week for completion of site work.

Red Cross Sets First Aid Drive Across America

Broadened and intensive cooperative work with federal agencies and other large national groups highlighted the work of the Red Cross First Aid Service in the last year.

Daniel Morehouse, chairman of the First Aid Services of the Ulster County Red Cross chapter, listed some of the activities conducted on a national scale by the organization, along with details of the first aid program carried on here.

Stage Fund Drive

Ulster County Red Cross chapter is engaged in a month-long campaign of education as well as a drive for funds in the area outside the Community Chest area.

Most sweeping of the Red Cross first aid activities, Morehouse said, is its cooperative venture with the U. S. government's project, Mission Safety 70. This project has as its aim a 30 per cent reduction in accidents among federal employes by 1970.

The Red Cross role is to conduct classes where possible and to train first aid instructors in government agencies. These instructors will then teach first aid to their fellow-workers. Experience of the last 56 years has shown that first-aid trained persons are more accident conscious and less likely to have accidents.

Work With Indians

American Red Cross first aid also worked with the U. S. Office of Economic Opportunity (Job Corps). Attending the Red Cross National Aquatic School at Camp Courage, Maple Lake, Minn., were approximately 30 Indians representing tribes from reservations in North and South Dakota and Arizona who majored in first aid and were qualified as authorized first aid instructors.

OEO, the Bureau of Indian Affairs, and the tribal councils involved participated in this cooperative undertaking. The instructors thus trained will pass on their knowledge to their fellow tribesmen.

The Red Cross cooperated with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company to develop a multi-media first aid instruction course for Bell employes. The content is based on the Red Cross first aid textbook procedures. The integrated instructional methods involve three techniques—motion picture film, programmed instruction workbooks, and skill practice under the supervision of an instructor. Donald L. Beaumont, a first aid instructor trainer for the Ulster County Chapter and an employe of American Telephone and Telegraph Company at White Plains was one of the first Bell employes to receive instruction in this new course. This course is for Bell telephone employes only and is not available to the general public.

National Program

Through cooperation with both labor and management in the building and construction trades, Red Cross swung into high gear in the training of apprentices in these hazardous callings. All over the country classes are reported in progress.

A total of 1,161,700 certificates were issued to persons completing courses in first aid during 1966 and this total is expected to increase during 1967.

The first aid program in Ulster County is one of the programs made possible by the voluntary contributions to the Ulster County Community Chest and the Red Cross month of March fund drives.

Rate Marvel Cig Lowest, Raleigh Tops in Nicotine

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Improved cigarette filters would help stop needless and premature loss of life each year from lung cancer and other diseases some physicians associate with smoking, a cancer-research scientist maintains.

Most filter-type cigarettes reduce tar and nicotine, but the tobacco industry should devise more effective filters, Dr. George F. Moore, director of Roswell Park Memorial Institute said Tuesday.

Roswell Park is the state's cancer research and treatment center.

Findings on tar and nicotine content of 56 brands of cigarettes also were released. The cigarettes were tested at the center.

Marvel, a king-sized filter-tip cigarette, was found to have 8.3 milligrams of tar and .032 milligrams of nicotine for the lowest yield of all the brands tested Moore said.

Raleigh, a non-filtered, king-sized cigarette, had the highest yield with 43.4 mg of tar and 2.64 mg of nicotine per cigarette, he added.

Need More Items For 70,000 Kits Readied for Viet

Members of the New York Chapter of the Thomas A. Dooley Foundation, Inc., would like to thank those in this area for the fine response to a plea for items for various projects undertaken by the Foundation.

In view of the recent request by the Marine Action Team for 70,000 Dooley Kit bags for children in the Da Nang area of South Vietnam, there is still an urgent need for facecloths, tooth paste, tooth brushes and ball point pens. The kit bags, which are made from gay cottons, are 10 by 14 inches in size and are packed in New York, each one containing the above mentioned items, along with a comb, band-aids and a small toy.

The Dooley Foundation is also assisting Madame Vu Thi Ngai in maintaining the Orphalinet An Lac in Saigon, and she will continue to need baby shirts and diapers, materials for the children's shorts and blouses, safety pins, elastic and snaps.

Since it costs Madame Ngai $2.000 a month to care for over 400 orphans, she is in desperate need of money. Postage is also a large item in sending supplies to the orphanage. The military in the area has undertaken the task of taking the supplies to Madame Ngai and members of the 121st Signal Battalion of the 1st Infantry Division have literally adopted the orphanage. They, too, are grateful for any help friends in the United States may give them.

For the convenience of those wishing to contribute to the Dooley projects, a drop box has been placed in the Thrift Shop, Bradley Meadows, Woodstock, along with a money receptacle. Nickels, dimes and quarters or larger amounts will be welcome. Mrs. Jerri Parke at the Thrift Shop will be happy to answer any questions.

Exceptional Child To Be P-TA Topic

"The Exceptional Child" will be the topic for this Thursday's Woodstock P-TA meeting to be held at 8 p. m. in the local elementary school. Postponed from Tuesday of last week because of the major snowstorm, the program will offer Ralph Falanga, school psychologist and administrative assistant to the superintendent of the Board of Cooperative Educational Services, as guest speaker.

Falanga is expected to point out that any and all children may be considered exceptional and to define ways and methods of discovering such talent.

The guest speaker holds a MA degree from Columbia University, has taught both English and History, has been an instructor for mentally retarded youngsters and worked extensively with the Mental Health Clinic in this area. A resident of Wallkill, he curently serves as supervisor of the new Child Study Class at Woodstock School.

AWARD WINNERS — Representing Onteora Central School these students were award winners in recent Distributive Education Clubs of America competition held at Kingston High School (first row)—Marty Giluliano, second place sales presentation and Edna Weber, first place sweetheart; rear, William Carr, third place display judging; James Carr, second place merchandise math and Joe Raymond, second place job interview. They will now travel to Concord Hotel for the three-day state leadership conference. Miss Weber will represent Section 5A in her category. Paul Wereszynski, member of the OCS business department, is advisor to DECA, winners of five trophies in five of the seven categories entered.

Offers Exercise Class for Girls

Since 1958, Liza Friediger has been instructing exercise classes for women at her calisthenics studio in Woodstock. Currently, the courses are being offered on a monthly basis at her Ohayo Mountain Road home.

The unique system used by Liza Friediger is one which she has worked out and evolved through many years of experience in the study of physical education and rhythmic dance. The result of her own personal pursuits in these fields in Munich and of ballet and acrobatics in Paris, the classes have as their primary aims a fitness of body, posture, circulation, training of muscles not ordinarily used in daily life, relaxing of tensions and reducing weight.

In the firm belief that it is important to give children physical education training from an early age, a new class is presently being organized for girls from the age of six to eight years. This will be held in the studio on Saturday mornings and only a limited number of pupils will be accepted in order to give them the full benefit of the instructor's teaching. Parents who are interested in having their daughters attend should register promptly.

Classes for adults are held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday mornings and Tuesday night. Further information may be obtained from Liza Friediger.

Sick Child Is Branded By 'Allergic Shiners'

By Allergy Foundation of America (Distributed by NEA Special Services)

As the doctor enters the room his first glance reveals the history of the child before him.

There are all the characteristics written on the face. Dark circles under the eyes betray the constant cold-type symptoms of chronic nasal allergy which causes swelling of the mucus membrane of the nose and sinuses. The child is breathing through his open mouth, bypassing the stopped-up nose.

To the doctor, these "allergic shiners" are an unmistakable sign. The child is suffering from a hay fever allergy.

The doctor sets about the task of rescuing him. Antihistimines or other drugs can give quick relief; skin tests given with essences of known allergy-producing allergens can identify the offending substances by the reddened spots only these produce on the skin. Then desensitization can proceed; with medicine and air-conditioning, perhaps, keeping the patient comfortable as possible when necessary during the treatment.

Had this child's condition been neglected, the story would have been far different. The hay fever paves the way for further infection including sinus trouble and hearing loss. One of three hay fever victims can expect to develop asthma in time.

There is no season for a child's hay fever. In the spring there can be an epidemic among those sensitive to tree pollen. Summer's hay fever, coinciding with the release of grass pollen, fells its prey with the second onset. Fall hay fever, when ragweed pollen contaminates the air, engulfs an even larger group. And not to be overlooked is a year-round nasal distress arising from house dust.

Most serious of the allergic diseases of childhood is asthma. It strikes quickly and the labored breathing, particularly in small babies, calls for emergency treatment and frequently admission to a hospital.

In the past, such a child sufferer was often doomed to near-invalidism, bedridden and needing constant care. Hopefully, asthma experts are seeing signs on the horizon that carefully controlled exercise offers promise of breathing rehabilitation.

They're still amazed by a tag football team of 13 Denver asthmatic children, gingerly put together in an experimental program, which progressed so fast during the season that the boys were champs of the eight-team Chamber of Commerce league —undefeated.

Court Declines Resnick Advice On Elwyn Rulings

The Appellate Division of the New York State Supreme Court has declined to advise Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick (D), with respect to "past decisions" of Ulster County Family Court Judge Hugh R. Elwyn.

Resnick sought to ascertain from the court under letter of March 6 "what, if anything, can be done about past decisions handed down by Judge Elwyn in which one of the parties was Welfare Commissioner Joseph Fitzsimmons or his agent."

The query came as a result of litigation in the Liuni adoption case.

Resnick has been advised by John J. O'Brien, clerk of the Appellate Court, that the court cannot and does not offer advisory or other opinion with respect to past decisions "unless and until the cases involving them are before it."

In his letter to the Appellate Division, Resnick also sought to learn what steps can be taken "to protect the public from . . . future cases of conflict of interest."

In reply to that query Resnick has been advised that "the judges of any of the county level courts in Ulster County are authorized to sit in either of the other such courts during the absence, disqualification or other disability of a judge of one of such other courts."

In the recent Liuni adoption case the Appellate Division disqualified Judge Elwyn to preside over the case and nullified his earlier decision in favor of the welfare commissioner. The matter was referred to a special judge for determination.

The reason for the disqualification of Family Court Judge Elwyn to hear the Liuni adoption case was that Judge Elwyn and Commissioner Fitzsimmons were related by marriage.

RESPECT IS FIRST ORDER

The formation here of a Public Safety Committee to unite with the police department in an auxiliary capacity and not as a pressure vigilante focuses the spotlight of public opinion on the problems created by crime.

The problems of crime have certain elements in common with other public problems. One is that effective remedy is much more likely when matters are kept before the public eye, than if they are spoken of in hushed tones and pressed into the background away from public notice.

The prominency, amount of space and scope of crime news as presented in this newspaper, however distasteful, represents its true relaxation to the events of the day as nearly as that can be judged. There is no sense in tucking away crime news in obscure corners because they offend taste.

The aims of the safety unit are commendable being in accordance with good citizenship, which means service to the community, willingness to shoulder civic responsibility and setting a good example to others.

One way in which every citizen can cooperate with the law enforcement authorities is to obey all the laws all the time and to openly display respect for the police officer on the beat. In recent years, there has been an attempt to denigrate police work, which has had the effect of damaging the effectiveness of the policeman's job.

The first order of business for the Public Safety Committee might well be a crusade for solid and even militant respect for law and order and for those charged with administering it.

We also must have the highest respect for our courts, which is the foundation of the American system of justice, democracy and fair play. Judges must be eminently qualified, scrupulously fair, completely sincere and honest and work hard at their job. The courts must be very conscious of their dignity and public image.

FORCED HEALTH PLAN

The Empire State Chamber of Commerce questions the value of public hearings as part of the legislative process as a result of action on the proposed bill for mandatory health insurance for workers and dependents in business hiring three or more persons.

The Chamber was one of many organizations including employer groups and the State AFL-CIO which spoke against the bill at the hearing. There were no strong voices in favor of the concept.

Despite the strong stand by both labor and business, the proposal is still alive and receiving serious consideration. There is even talk that proponents intend to ram the bill through in the closing days of the session.

No wonder the Chamber asks, "Will these public hearings serve any useful purpose? Will the members of the Joint Legislative Committee, after hearing of strong opposition in all parts of the state, still vote in favor? If so, what purpose has been served by elaborate public hearings?

This proposed legislation would be a further tax on the employers in the state resulting in a deterioration of the state's competitive position. Further, hospitalization coverage mandated by the state is an unwarranted invasion into an area which is essentially a matter of voluntary action.

We agree with Senator Jay P. Rolison that we don't need compulsory health insurance.

GIRL SCOUT WEEK

For those who are about to throw in the sponge and join the cynics who see little hope for the future, this week may come as a reminder that youth, hope and high ideals are ever-present. These seven March days are designated officially as Girl Scout Week. The theme of the Girl Scout's 55th birthday is: "Values to Hold—Worlds to Explore."

The values are still those instilled by the founder of the Girl Scouts, Juliette Gordon Low. The young ladies of the Scouts now, as then, represent the highest ideals of character, conduct, patriotism and service. The worlds they explore involve the home, community, nation, other cultures and other lands.

In this day when skepticism and materialism are rampant and many young people are rebelling against restraint of any kind, the importance of such organizations as the Girl Scouts takes on a new meaning. The three million Girl Scouts represent a mighty force among American youth—a constructive force that may come up with some meaningful answers to today's problems for all young people.

The Girl Scouts and Girl Scout Week deserve the unqualified endorsement and support of every adult U. S. citizen.

THE AUTO SAFETY REVOLUTION GOES ON

DETROIT, Mich. — It's too bad that Ralph Nader, who thinks the American automobile was designed as a lethal weapon, didn't show up last week for the Ford Motor Company's dedication of its two new "firsts," a $2 million service center devoted to keeping cars reliable on the road and a multi-million facility built to house the multiple facets of Ford engineering's continuing research into safety. If Nader had been there, he and Ford President Arjay Miller might have had a lively time exchanging "I told you so's." And, though it rates as an improbability, the chip that Nader wears so proudly on his shoulder might have teetered for a moment.

Nader would, of course, have concluded that Ford's building of a safety-center constitutes a tacit admission that he and Connecticut Senator Abe Ribicoff were right all along in saying that the American automobile has had too many designed-in dangers." But the layman, going through the new 40,000-square-foot safety research building on a corner of the Dearborn Proving Ground, goes away impressed with the fact that automobile safety changes have an ancestry that is considerably older than Nader's appearance in print. No doubt the automobile companies have been slow to incorporate some of the findings of the safety research engineers. But many of the things that have finally been brought together under one roof at Ford were in the works long before Nader wrote his controversial, "Unsafe at Any Speed."

The testing of seat belts is an example. Perhaps they should have been made mandatory on cars before they were. But the fact remains that the perfect seat belt, like the truly ecumenical Christian church, still lies in the future. A dummy, sitting on the right side of a car in a thirty-mile-per-hour crash test run into a concrete block, still cracks against windshield and dashboard in spite of a seat belt strapped around his waist. Ford President Miller thinks there should be a penalty in law for car passengers who fail to fasten their belts. This should please Mr. Nader, for it puts Mr. Miller on his side. But the seat belt is no universal panacea, and Arjay Miller was right in 1965 when he observed to U.S. Senators that car safety was a total matter consisting of good maintenance, good driver training and good repair (all stressed at Ford's new service center) as well as internal car engineering. To trust any single thing such as an imperfect seat belt is only to delude people, and Mr. Miller was not engaged in "diversionary" tactics when he insisted to the Senators on long study of "preliminary data."

The new Ford safety center shows how "preliminary" studies have deepened and expanded over the years. The "suspended shoulder harness system," billed as better than the round-the-waist strap or the single diameter strap favored in Europe, is receiving a thorough testing at Ford. It holds the upper torso in place without cramping, and it also provides "lateral restraint from both directions." But during a violent crash it would not keep the head from moving while the rest of the body remained rigid. So it could have a built-in, neck-snapping danger, and the engineers are right when they say it hasn't been "completely evaluated." Despite anything Mr. Nader might say, the time hasn't come to make the most "advanced" strap compulsory on all cars.

The Ford center shows the improvement made in safe windshield lamination over the years. It is conducting experiments in "wrist-twist steering" that might add to the safety of the collapsible steering column. It shows how a radio alert system might be used to warn drivers of dangers around the next bend. It demonstrates how electronic warnings might be relayed backward from a suddenly-braked car in time to prevent chain smash-ups on crowded freeways. It is experimenting with a car in which instruments and signals have been removed from the dashboard and placed on the side door. It is simulating crash conditions by firing a "sled" down a track and getting answers without destroying expensive cars.

So the safety revolution proceeds. Dr. William Haddon's new National Traffic Safety Agency can take a bow for forcing it along. But it was "in the works" anyway, and the industry itself deserves its own bow for a co-operative attitude.

Inflammation of Eyelids Is Usually an Allergy

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I have an inflammation of my eyelids that feels as though I had sand in my eyes. I have been using yellow oxide of mercury ointment. Is it all right to use it every night?

A—If your conjunctivitis is due to an infection the ointment you are using should clear it up in seven to 10 days. If it doesn't, the true cause should be determined. This may be a habit of rubbing your eyes, overindulgence in alcohol, working under improper lighting or direct exposure to sunlight. The commonest cause, however, is allergy for which the treatment is to discover and avoid the offending substance.

Q—I must frequently pull white strings of mucus out of my eyes. What would cause this?

A—You probably have some form of conjunctivitis. Various eye drops are available for temporary relief but you should have your eye doctor find and remove the cause.

Q—What causes lobar pneumonia? Is it serious? Can you get it more than once? Does it leave any after effects?

A—Lobar pneumonia, an infection due to the pneumococcus, causes the consolidation of an entire lobe of the lungs on one side in contract to the patchy involvement of both lungs in bronchopneumonia. Unless treated promptly with antibiotics it can be rapidly fatal. Since the body builds up no resistance to the pneumococcus it is possible but not advisable to get this disease many times.

With prompt treatment complete recovery is the rule, but complications have been known to occur. These include pleural effusion (an accumulation of water in the space between the lungs and the chest wall), pericarditis (inflammation of the sac surrounding the heart), arthritis and jaundice.

Q—I have heard my doctor described as a gastroenterologist. He says that refers to a subspecialty. Would that make him less skilled than a specialist?

A—No. It means that, although his specialty is internal medicine, he has narrowed his field of primary interest to diseases of the digestive tract. You might even be justified in calling him a superspecialist. Other so-called subspecialties of internal medicine include cardiology (heart disease), endocrinology (diseases of the glands of internal secretion) and allergy.

"Tell It to the Judge, Bud!"

Washington News

Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Responsible Negro leaders today seem no closer to finding a dramatic new course of action than they were six to eight months ago.

Sources within the movement say that the split between the moderates in the NAACP and the Urban League and the radicals in CORE and SNICK is greater than ever.

Reports persist that the venerable leader, A. Philip Randolph, shortly will call some sort of "summit meeting" to be held next month in Washington, the object being to sort out priorities and infuse the struggle with fresh urgency.

The expectation is, however, that some Negro militants might decline to attend. Their isolation earlier was emphasized by the absence of any CORE or SNICK representative at the White House gathering of Negro leaders the day before President Johnson gave Congress his 1967 civil rights message.

Operating currently without the spur of demonstrations or other attention-getting techniques, the moderates are pressing quietly but hard for the President's new proposals for fair housing, protection of civil rights workers, opening of southern juries to Negroes and other legislative matters.

They are also doing what they can, on a broad front, to promote better jobs, schools and housing through enlistment of private establishment aid. Says one civil rights appraiser:

"Right now they are exhibiting a reasoned kind of impatience."

But their troubles are legion. They believe that the "private sector" is seriously unresponsive. Badly needed cadres of responsible new Negro leaders are not developing. Impressive new members of middle-class Negroes, in themselves an important fact in the changing racial picture, are not taking a hand.

In the absence of sharply visible action, militants' warnings of grave new racial explosions this summer in U. S. cities are heard with fear by responsible moderates.

Repetition of riots in the style of Watts - Chicago - Cleveland - Harlem is seen as self-defeating since these prototype outbursts are heavily blamed for the current conservative climate on the racial front.

House ouster of Adam Clayton Powell, of course, has further inflamed frustrated Negroes and may add to the prospect of a bad summer.

The moderates see no hope of a turn toward caution among the militants as the warm weather approaches. CORE leader Floyd McKissick is described by one observer as "having a boiling point of minus two." Stokely Carmichael, SNICK boss, is regarded as a continuing problem even if he should make good on his promise to step down from his post next month — which some doubt will happen.

The worst of it is that slow but real gains are being made by the Negro community, yet their largely undramatic nature makes it difficult for moderate leaders to hold them up as hopeful examples to Negroes still immersed in ghetto poverty.

Ironically, the most visible advance seems to be occurring in the still heavily segregated Old South. There the big stress is on improving Negro voting opportunities. Swelling registration figures testify that the effort is paying off.

In Mississippi, where a key Democratic governorship primary takes place this summer, one forecast suggests 250,000 Negroes may by then be signed up to vote. The total now exceeds 180,000. The higher figure would represent roughly a third of eligible Negroes. Not many years back the registered percentage was around five.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Maria sat in her aluminum wheelchair, a gnome in a calico dress, slitting envelopes and watching money fall out. "We're rich," she said. Not really. Sheltered, yes. Rich, no. Some of you will remember that Maria was the first of the Two-Cent babies to be taken to Holy Angels Nursery, at Belmont, North Carolina.

She's 11 now, still alive, although when a doctor first studied her enormous head and almost legless body, he said: "I wouldn't give you two cents for this one's chances." Since then, there have been scores of infant misfits. Many die. Some linger awhile. A few weeks ago, I wrote about one who was born without skin and lived in a plastic bag, in fluid. That one died.

A little colored boy, four, sits up in a white bed in total blindness, paralyzed all the way. No brains, all guts. He never complains; just sits listening to the gurgling sounds of babies, grinning to himself.

The nursery is being dispossessed. The nuns, who have nothing to give the Two-Cent kids except love, think that God will provide the $250,000 they need. They are notoriously poor economists.

Several years ago, I wrote a piece about Holy Angels, as a favor to Kays Gary, a columnist of the Charlotte Observer. The readers overwhelmed me. In a month, they sent $40,000. Small continuing donations over the months brought the sum to $140,000.

Gary never gives up. He asked me to help again, and I told him that my readers had bought those babies over and over again. He puts on that sad spaniel expression. I tried anyway. So far, Maria and a Baptist minister and a few doctors have counted $32,500. This can humble a man like me. He begins to feel smaller than his audience.

Irma Baker of Miami sent a check for $1,000 and wrote: "Don't mention it." A man from Topeka, Kansas, wrote: "Here's $6 for your angels in gratitude for our little devils." A woman from Cleveland: "Here is $10. I can do without the Easter hat. It's so good to read about a place where babies are babies, without color or creed. Just babies .... John Sullivan of the Bronx sent a check for $250, with no note.

Jim DeMaris of Las Vegas, Nevada, sent $20 and said: "A few friends and I are pooling our birthday present money. Not just once. Every year." Mrs. J.M.C. of Elmhurst, N. Y., sent $25: "Many years ago I lost three holy angels. Then I raised a daughter to age 22, and God took her, too. She was a graduate nurse at Bellevue. A son, 22, is left, and he makes life not too much worth living."

Molly Quinn of Manhattan, N. Y., sent $2: "I'm with Social Security, but maybe this will help a little." Mary Caterson of Montrose, Pa., sent $10: "Never before have I answered a plea for money, but those babies..." Sally Bree of Neponsit, N. Y., sent $5: "Please take the time to love each one."

Anonymous with $100: "Please say a prayer in your faith for Rabbi David Goldman. This is sent in his memory." A man named Ashcroft, who made a business success but whose wife died and left him with three children and a hostile heart: "I've been stuck in selfpity and didn't know it. Here's a check for $1,000."

Mrs. I. Talt of Brooklyn: "If I get out of this hospital, it won't be my last contribution. Come to think of it, it won't be my last. If I don't get out." James Still of Morehead, Kentucky: "A baby's smile is worth anybody's $5." Milwaukee, Wisconsin: "Enclosed a lousy dollar. Do you suppose there could be 250,000 of us?"

Mr. McPhail of Buffalo, N.Y.: "I got plenty of pals who toss $50 on a bar in one night. Now they're going to pay in a different direction. Here's $1,000." Mrs. R. W. Jolley of Aiken, S.C.: "If our contributions seems small it's just because we Baptists have more charities which we must support!"

"Never mind my name. Just take the money. I've been sober six years and I'm trying to make seven." A corporation sent 3,000 shares of stock. Mrs. K. Lee of Burbank, Calif.: "My Dolores called me at 10:30 a.m. At 11 she was gone. To die in the street alone. I'll never get over it. Please take this $10."

Angela Del Guidice: "We have big healthy angels here at the Irving Trust Co. we have formed a 'Little Angel ¼ Club.' One of the girls circulates around with a little box. Here is our first $30 in quarters. Check it off to St. Irving."

Multiply these by about 6,000 and you have an idea of the mail. It's such a tough, callous world. The Two-Cent kids now have a down payment on the new nursery. Someone asked Maria if she remembered me. She nodded. "He's the nice man with the old hair," she said.

Maria, I love you.

Reconciliation of Races Is Retarted by Powell's Case

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Ironically, the case of Adam Clayton Powell is perhaps doing more to intensify racism in the United States than anything that has happened since the emotional era of "reconstruction" 100 years ago.

From all over the country reports are coming in nowadays that the American people are looking with dismay on the widely publicized utterances of Negro leaders who say the Harlem congressman is being penalized for his misdeeds only because he is a Negro. Astonishment is widespread that, even though a special committee of the House of Representatives has accused Powell of fraud in the handling of government funds, Negro leaders of high education and professional achievement insist that he should not be punished since he merely did what others in Congress have done. Yet it has been hitherto taught that two wrongs do not make a single right.

Most significant is the virtually unanimous prediction today that Powell will be re-elected in April. The House of Representatives can, of course, refuse to admit him or anybody else, white or black, who is lacking in integrity. But the Negro voters in Harlem are expected to brush aside the misdeeds and contine to charge racial discrimination if he is again barred.

Racism is one of the worst diseases that can afflict a nation. It produces a consciousness of possible discrimination in all walks of life. Particularly discouraging is the fact that it is growing acute at a time when many people were coming to believe that at last the voice of reason and the tenets of fairness were beginning to be applied in America without regard to race.

Victims of discrimination, to be sure, are inclined to lose a sense of balanced judgment as their bitterness produces a prejudice against persons of the opposite race. Blanket indictments of whites generally are being made today by some Negro leaders.

The tragedy of it all is that, as the Negro population grows to unprecedented size in the next decade, the congestion of whites and Negroes in many areas will increase perceptibly. Racial problems will plague not merely the cities but the suburbs, too. The hoped - for reconciliation of the races has been definitely retarded by the Powell case.

What is the answer? To punish now every member of Congress who has done what Powell did? But are there any in Congress who went off to the Bahamas or some other resort, as Powell did, refuse to obey court orders, and laugh off the fact that, as an elected representative, he has not been back in his district for nearly a year? Is a man a true representative of his constituents if he doesn't even see or talk with them?

These questions would be answered forthrightly by white and Negro voters if Adam Clayton Powell were not in the limelight. Discrimination because of race is being openly supported. Even when the Republicans themselves felt compelled to put up a Negro as a rival candidate in the coming election for Powell's seat, the pressure exerted on James Meredith by Negro leaders was such that he had to withdraw, giving a flimsy excuse.

Nor is all the racism confined to the contest in Powell's district. Many members of Congress, irrespective of race, who hail from localities in the North where there is a substantial Negro population are troubled about how to vote on the Powell case if it comes up again in the House. They don't want to antagonize Negroes throughout the country who seem to be almost a solid bloc behind the Harlem minister. The congressmen are afraid, on the other hand, of the white vote, which also shows signs of solidifying against anyone who condone's Powell's behavior.

Much of what has been won since 1954, when segregation in the public schools was outlawed, may be lost now as public sentiment is stimulated to divide again along racial lines. For if Negroes organize behind Negroes irrespective of the merits of a case, the probability is that other races, in their emotional resentment, will react the same way. It may be the beginning of another "tragic era" as the bitternesses of the 1860s and 1870s are resurrected a century later.

The World Today

Notes Changing Times Toning Down Congress

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The changing times have had a quieting effect on Congress. There is still just as much noise from the Capitol. But it's a different kind of noise.

And, just because it is, President Johnson doesn't get the same kind of lashing that was inflicted on President Harry S. Truman. One reason, of course, is that the cast of characters in Congress has changed.

Only Minor Part

But thats' only a minor part of the reason. The attitude in the country is different.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal ended in 1938 with the passage of the minimum wage law. From then on Roosevelt and the country put all their resources into getting ready for a war and then fighting it.

On Sept. 2 1945 Japan formally surrendered and four days later Truman sent a message to Congress. He had the tremendous task of reconverting the country to peace. He never forgot that day, as he made clear in his memoirs.

"It was on that day," he wrote, "and with that message that I first spelled out the details of the program of liberalism and progressivism which was to be the foundation of my administration."

New Deal Addition

He wanted to carry on with the unfinished New Deal and asked Congress for extension of Social Security, an increase in the minimum wage, national health insurance (now medicare), continued war against slums, new regional developments like the TVA, a full employment bill, and continuance of wartime economic controls.

But at that time Congress in both houses was mostly dominated by a coalition of conservative Republicans, led by Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, and Southern Democrats.

Taft, more than any one man, was Truman's constant critic. There was such unbroken uproar and opposition to Truman that the Democrats lost control of Congress to the Republicans in 1946.

Bit by Bit

Bit by bit Truman got some of his proposals through but Congress took one momentous step. It wouldn't give him a "full employment act" but it gave him an Employment Act in 1946.

In that act, for the first time in American history, Congress said the federal government had a responsibility for the general welfare. All the progressive social legislation which followed in the years since then can be considered a natural consequence of both the nation's needs and the responsibility the government had to assume as a result of that act of 1946.

And right here is the dividing line in the difference between the treatment Truman got from Congress and the treatment Johnson gets.

Was Shaking Off

With Truman the nation was shaking off its historic and extreme conservatism — although not quite, as the right wing in this country today can testify. But social and welfare legislation, starting with Truman after the war, gradually came to be regarded as a national need, not a wild-eyed dream.

Nothing shows that better than the record of the 89th Congress in 1965. It approved Johnson's "Great Society" programs by the bundle, the greatest production performance in American history.

These are just a few of the programs it approved: a health program for the elderly, easier registration for Negroes wanting to vote, aid for education, improved Social Security benefits, rent subsidies for low-income families.

Seen as Natural

While Johnson's "Great Society" is simply an extension of Roosevelt's New Deal and Truman's Fair Deal, the country and Congress now have come to consider social welfare legislation as natural and necessary.

This is why Johnson doesn't get from Congress the beating Truman had to take on domestic needs. Ironically Johnson's main criticism in Congress — on the war in Vietnam — comes not from the Republican leaders, who support him, but from some of his own Democrats.

Blasts Demolish Sewage Plant

Three Schools Closed, Many Evacuated Again

OLEAN, N.Y. (AP) — An emergency that forced 2,500 persons to evacuate their homes was reimposed on a limited basis today as gasoline fumes, believed responsible for two explosions, persisted in sewer lines.

Mayor Harvey Shneiderman ordered about 150 families, some of whom had returned to their homes shortly after 1:30 a.m., to find temporary shelter elsewhere.

None Injured

His original declaration for a state of emergency followed explosions late Tuesday that demolished the city's sewage-treatment plant and damaged a small, two-story building housing an apartment and a barber shop.

No one was reported injured in either blast.

Shneiderman said it had not been determined whether the gasoline fumes were the direct cause of the explosions. Investigators estimated, however, that about 2,000 gallons of gasoline seeped into the sewer system after a 5,000-gallon underground tank ruptured at a service station.

Residents of a 20-block area left their homes Tuesday night. Many began returning soon after the mayor lifted his original order.

Fumes in One Section

The mayor said fumes still were in manhole areas in one section of the 20-block area.

About 1,000 pupils at Public Schools 10 and 11 and St. Mary's Parochial School were given today off from classes.

The explosions occurred a little more than an hour apart.

The first hit the basement of the two - story structure. There was extensive smoke and water damage to the barber shop and apartment.

The second blast demolished a city sewage treatment plant, leaving an estimated $250,000 in damage, firemen said. No one was in the garage-type brick structure, which had three of its four stories below ground.

Investigators estimated that at least 2,080 gallons of gasoline seeped into the sewer lines from a 5,000-gallon underground tank that ruptured during a cave-in at a service station 19 blocks away from the plant.

Firemen said a natural-gas furnace probably ignited the fumes in the apartment building.

Blame Spark on Second

A spark from electric controls in the plant was believed to have caused the second explosion, Fire Chief Fred Page said.

The leaking tank was removed Tuesday night.

John Zatycki, a city worker, narrowly missed death when he stepped out of the plant seconds before the explosion.

The city has a population of 21,868.

The apartment building is on West State Street. The plant was at the foot of South 19th Street, adjacent to the Allegheny River.

Car Theft Probe Leads to Filing Of Arms Charge

Investigation by Leeds State Police of a reported theft of a car on Tuesday afternoon led to the arrest of Robert Paul Sheeley, 27, of Albany, on a charge of possessing a dangerous weapon.

Trooper D. F. Sager said Senior BCI Investigator J. J. Buckley, BCI Investigator M. P. Matera and Trooper D. N. Perry were near Cementon investigating the car theft, when they picked up Sheeley a short distance from the vehicle.

Troopers accused the defendant of possessing a sawed-off 12-gage shotgun. Sheeley was committed to the Greene County jail pending examination on Friday before a local justice of the peace.

According to Trooper Sager, Sheeley is fighting extradition to Massachusetts and Connecticut, where he is reportedly wanted by authorities.

Form Committee To Ease Hardship Of UR Relocation

The Executive Committee of the Ulster County Community Action Committee, Inc. acted Tuesday night to form a special committee of members from Kingston to study and make recommendations on ways of easing the hardship of relocation upon the residents of the Urban Renewal area.

The committee was asked to immediately contact the Legal Aid Committee of Ulster County Bar Association, to assure that all tenants can have legal counsel if required.

Members of the special committee, appointed by President Douw S. Meyers Jr. were Arthur Ewig, Annye Waters, Lawrence Siewers, and Clifford A. Henze. They will meet early next week to study recommendations made by Rondout Advisory Committee.

Also on the agenda was an application for a full year Head-Start program. The committee approved filing for a Head-Start program by Ulster County Community Action Committee. The Head-Start center will be located in the First Emmanuel Church in Rondout and will be under the direction of a local advisory board.

The Executive Committee also called for close cooperation between the Head-Start center and the Kingston Consolidated School District.

The application for a Head-Start program will now be filled with the Office of Economic Opportunity for their approval.

Herman to Be Travia Aide at '67 Convention

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Dr. Robert S. Herman, an acknowledged expert in state government and public finance, will serve as executive assistant to the president of the State Constitutional Convention, it was announced today.

Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia, who will serve as president of the convention, said he intended to appoint Herman to the key administrative post. The salary has not been fixed, the speaker's office said.

Herman, 47, a resident of nearby Slingerlands, has been serving as executive director of the Temporary State Commission on the Constitutional Convention, the agency created to prepare for the convention.

The convention will open here on April 4. Its task is to streamline the state's voluminous constitution.

Until joining the commission last year, Herman had served since 1954 as assistant state budget director. He has taught at several universities and has served as a consultant on public administration and finance to the federal government and the governments of many foreign nations.

Bugged Internally

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP) — A sea lion and a South American caiman are happily thrashing about the San Francisco Zoo unaware they have been bugged.

Dr. Stuart MacKay of Boston University is conducting an experiment he hopes will lead to the elimination of at least some of the body-monitoring equipment now carried by U.S. astronauts.

He has fed tiny transmitters in food to the sea lion and the caiman—a type of alligator—and listens to their temperature signals 30 feet away on a receiver.

Job Through Want Ad

BOSTON (AP)—Boston's new director of public facilities landed the $25,000-a-year post after answering a" blind" classified ad in a newspaper. He said he had no idea that the City of Boston had placed the ad.

Red Cross Sees 4,000 Families For Flood Aid

The American National Red Cross today estimated that more than 4,000 families will register for Red Cross disaster relief in West Virginia and Pennsylvania, following widespread floods. Hardest hit areas are Mingo and Logan Counties in West Virginia and Mon Valley in Pennsylvania. Fifty-five Red Cross disaster specialists are on the job in West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Ohio and 20 Department of Public Welfare caseworkers are on loan to the Red Cross in West Virginia.

Approximately 1,000 families were expected to apply for Red Cross assistance in Mingo County alone. In Logan, Red Cross volunteers, VISTA volunteers, and Department of Public Welfare caseworkers were working hand in hand. The swollen Monongahela, Greenbrier, Big Coal, and other rivers caused widespread basement damage and destroyed some homes in West Virginia and Pennsylvania; at one time 14 Red Cross shelters were open to house flood victims in the two-state area.

In Ohio, an anticipated 11 p m. flood crest of 60.5 feet on the Ohio River, Saturday, March 11, caused emergency measures to be taken by Red Cross workers on Friday and Saturday. A Red Cross shelter in Manchester was housing 225 persons; a shelter in Ripley housed 26; a shelter in Lawrenceburgh, Ind., housed 48; and four shelters were made ready in Portsmouth, Cincinnati and in Lawrenceburg, Ind. Four Red Cross Readiness and Emergency Action disaster mobile units were dispatched to the Cincinnati area from Dayton, Akron, Columbus and Toledo. These units are being supplemented by a unit from Eastern Area Headquarters, American Red Cross, from Alexandria, Va.

Elsewhere, in Ohio, Champaign County Chapter volunteers were working around the clock, providing comfort to relatives of those killed in the Trans-World Airlines plane crash, March 9, near Urbana; the Dayton Chapter also dispatched a disaster mobile unit to the scene.

Worker Loses Life In Saw Mill Mishap

WATERFORD, Pa. (AP) — Walter J. Emory was killed Tuesday when his head was pulled into a saw drive shaft at a saw mill here, about a week after the man and his son began work at the plant.

Emory, 58, of French Creek, N.Y. was operating a saw that cuts off the ends of pieces of lumber officials at the Mitchell Saw Mill Co. said.

A spokesman for the firm said Emory apparently reached down to pick up an end-peice, when his sweater became caught in the shaft and pulled him into the blade.

Emory and his son, Dalas, came here from their Chautauqua County home about a week ago, the spokesman said.

A STUDENT NURSE has soft words for a tiny patient while in training at Walter Reed Hospital in Washington, D.C.

The Nurse Corps

Women in War Zone

American women are serving in Vietnam as members of the Army Nurse Corps. All registered professional nurses, they work with the wounded, and with the Vietnamese in Civil Action Programs, as shown below right. Established 66 years ago, the Corps now includes 4,350 nurses, all but 950 of them women.

ARMY NURSES have served in two world wars, Korea and Vietnam, and are currently stationed at other spots around the globe. Training at the Walter Reed Army Institute of Nursing is offered with pay to 135 men or women each year, or applicants to the Corps may be graduates of accredited nursing schools elsewhere. Besides their various nursing duties shown here, women members of the Corps occasionally find time to make new acquaintances, as did the girl in the center picture below.

Navy Seeks Men For Electronics

An electronic revolution has occurred within the United States Navy during the past two decades. As a result of this revolution, the Navy needs intelligent, sincerely motivated men with an aptitude for electronics.

To meet the need, the Navy has initiated the "advanced electronics field training program." a program that offers an exceptionally high degree of training and a challenging future. In most cases the educational program covers more than a year of formal training in basic and advanced electronics. In addition, all ratings in this field are eligible for proficiency pay in addition to their regular base pay.

This program is open only to high school graduates who have successfully completed at least one year of mathematics. Some of the more advanced fields included in this program involve guided missiles, digital computers, electronic counters, computer programming and telemetry.

Any young man who is interested in acquiring an outstanding electronics education in a highly technical area, is advised to seek futher information from the local Nevy Recruiter, Central Post Office Building.

World's most heavily forested areas are the Amazon valley of South America and the Congo valley of Africa.

Saugerties Man Injured, Second Driver Is Cited

A Saugerties man was injured and a motorist was cited for following too closely after their cars were in collision on Route 212, Town of Saugerties at about 6:15 p. m. Tuesday.

Trooper John Kohland of the Kingston barracks said the vehicles were driven by Rolf Stark, 24, of RD 3, Box 105, Saugerties, and Edwin Sandberg, 41, of 10 Oakley Drive, Huntington Station. Stark was slowing his car to make a right turn into a private driveway and Sandberg, also driving in the same direction applied the brakes of his car and it skidded into the right rear of the Stark vehicle, troopers said.

The violation was lodged against Sandberg by Trooper Richard Dempsey. The summons is returnable before Justice of the Peace Calvin Cody, Town of Saugerties, at a later date.

Stark was treated at Kingston Hospital for lacerations of the head and injuries of the left shoulder.

Driver in Fatal Collision Fined For Impairment

Ernest Ackert, 45, RD 1, Saugerties, former village clerk in that community, was fined a total of $60 Monday night after pleading guilty to a reduced charge of driving a motor vehicle while his ability was impaired and failure to keep to the right.

Ackert was cited on Jan. 14 by Kingston State Police after his car was involved in a fatal accident on Route 32 near Quarryville.

Harry E. Paradise Jr., 52, of Blue Mountain, operator of the second car involved in the mishap, was fatally injured. Paradise, a well-known area pharmacist was the former owner of Paramount Pharmacy in Saugerties.

State Police had originally booked Ackert for driving while intoxicated. A representative of the district attorney's office determined there was not sufficient evidence to prove that charge, and recommended that the charge be reduced to driving while Ackert's ability was impaired.

Judge Robert Stedge, Town of Ulster, accepted the pleading and fined Ackert the maximum $50 for driving while his ability was impaired and $10 for failure to keep to the right. Ackert's license had previously been revoked, it was noted.

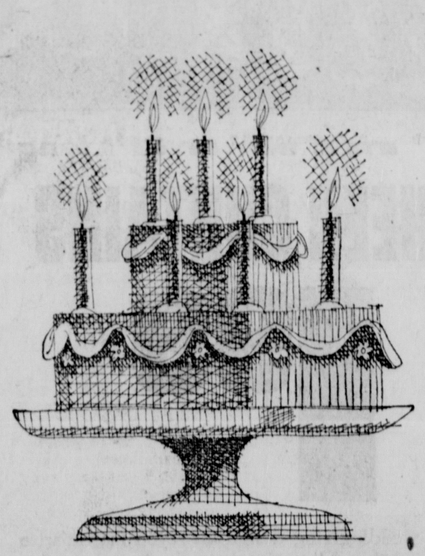

Set Junkyard Hearing

Hearing on the first summons issued under the new junkyard ordinance in the Town of Rosendale has been set for Monday 7 p. m. at the home of Judge Raymond LeFever.

Arthur Tyler answered the summons for his Tillson junkyard last week before Judge LeFever and requested counsel. Hearing was postponed to March 20 at that time.

Freeman Predicts Attacks on Programs

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Present administration farm commodity programs undoubtedly will come under "severe attack" by some farm groups and some congressmen, Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman said Tuesday night.

However, the secretary said, a recent study showed that without these programs by 1970 "net farm income might well fall by one-third, some $5 billion below the 1966 figure of $16.3 billion. . . ."

Freeman, speaking at the annual National Farmers Union convention, said that when farm legislation comes up for consideration again in 1969, there will be "three broad alternatives."

Answers Your Insurance Questions

QUESTION: I've heard that if an auto insurance company has to pay a big damage claim for someone they automatically cancel his insurance. Is this so?

ANSWER: No, it isn't. If a company pays a big claim for someone they have insured for years and who has an otherwise clean driving record, the company will very likely continue to insure him.

List Legislative Action On Many Bills in Albany

By GERRY MCLAUGHLIN

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A child would not be permitted to drop out of school until reaching age 17, under terms of an Assembly - approved bill sent to the Senate today.

The Democratic-controlled Assembly approved Tuesday a measure that would raise from 16 to 17 the age at which a child could drop out of school. It was approved unanimously, without debate.

Under existing law, children must attend school full time from age seven through 16.

The bill was among scores on which action was taken Tuesday as the adjournment-minded Legislature sought to clear its calendars for a projected windup March 31. In other developments:

LIQUOR — Democrats applied majority pressure to force approval of a bill that would freeze for two years the state's issuance of liquor licenses for package stores and taverns. The liquor bill was passed, 91 - 54, then dispatched to the Senate, where concurrence was far from certain.

NARCOTICS—The Senate approved a bill that would authorize a police officer to stop and search a car when he "reasonably suspects" that the vehicle or its occupants may be carrying illegal narcotics. Senate Democrats criticized the measure, complaining that it would produce an unconstitutional invasion of privacy. The bill faced rough going in the Assembly.

SCHOOL BANDS — The Senate passed, 33 - 21, a measure that would bar a public school band from performing at a non-school event where admission is charged and whose main purpose is financial profit. Advocates said the measure was designed to protect commercial musicians from competition with school bands at such events as professional sports contests.

DOPE PEDDLERS—The Senate approved, 32-20, legislation that would boost the maximum penalty for those convicted of peddling narcotics to 25 years in prison. The current maximum is 15 years.

IMMUNIZATION — The Assembly approved a bill that would require all children in public, private or parochial schools to be immunized against measles. Exemptions would be granted to children whose religious persuasions forbid immunization or innoculation or to those physically unable to withstand the effect.

FIRE ALARMS—The Assembly gave its assent to a measure that would require public and private schools to connect their internal fire - alarm systems, with local fire departments, either by direct line or radio.

RENT CONTROL — A proposal to extend the rent-control law until June 30, 1969, was approved by the Senate. Unless the state enacts an extension, communities that still impose rent control would lose their authority to do so June 30. Most of the opposition came from Republicans.

PAPER BALLOTS—The Senate approved without a dissenting vote a bill that would authorize election boards throughout the state to provide paper ballots for voting on proposed amendments to the state constitution, propositions or other questions.

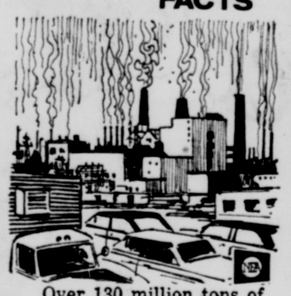

Niagara Milk Price

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Dairymen in the Niagara Frontier Milk Marketing Area will be paid a uniform price of $4.95 per hundredweight (46.5 quarts) for their February milk, it was announced today.

The price compared with $4.96 in January and $3.36 in February 1966.

Market administrator Leroy J. Hardy, who announced the price, set the February butterfat differential at 7.8 cents on milk over or under 3½ per cent in butterfat content.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Over 130 million tons of pollutants are discharged into the air over the United States every year, says The World Almanac. The pollutants soil cloths, corrode metals, deface buildings and, in general, cause property damage estimated at about $11 billion a year. The two major sources of air pollution are transportation and manufacturing.

Dear Abby . . .

Prospective Groom Changes His Mind

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am in a very awkward and embarrassing situation and need some help in getting out of it gracefully.

I am a school teacher who met this very nice young woman who is also a school teacher, and we started going together. In the course of the year we saw each other a great deal, and I went so far as to tell her I "loved" her and wanted to marry her. I even spoke to her parents about it.

My problem is that I really don't feel that I am ready for marriage, but I am in so deep now, I don't know how to get out. How can I tell her and her parents? I promised her a ring soon.

NOT READY

DEAR NOT: If you feel that you are not "ready" for marriage — depend upon it, you aren't. Tell the young lady in the kindest way you can. And the sooner — the better. It will be an unpleasant ordeal at best, but considering the alternative, it's the only solution.

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: I am 13 years old. My brother is married and has three children. Before they were born, my parents used to love me. Now I could drop dead, and they wouldn't even notice I was gone.

My mother is always telling people all about her DARLING grandchildren and what they do, but she never says a word about me.

My parents just don't care a bit about me, Abby. Please print this and tell me what to do.

NOT LOVED

DEAR NOT: Your parents love you just as much as they ever did, but now that their grandchildren have come along they have others to love as well. But that doesn't mean they love you less.

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: When a man is being introduced to another man how can he keep from having his hand crushed by the handshake?

Some men are so intent on impressing you with their power and friendliness they practically break your fingers. It's tough on a surgeon whose fingers must retain their sensitivity. Thank you. — S. S. R., M.D.

DEAR S. S. R., M.D.: A doctor should know that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. When extending your hand, warn, good humoredly, "Easy, friend — I need that to operate with." He'll get the message.

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for advising parents to believe their children to be innocent until proven guilty. I wish I had read that years ago.

When my sons were younger they were accused by a neighbor of a serious misdeed. Although my sons denied it up and down, this neighbor was sure, so I punished the boys severly by not allowing them to go to the County Fair. This meant a great deal to them, since we were financially unable to offer them much else in the way of entertainment.

About a week after the fair this neighbor called to say that he was "sorry" — he had made a mistake, and my boys were not the guilty parties.

It was too late to take my heartbroken boys to the fair, but you can bet, Abby, ever since that time I have believed them to be innocent until proven guilty. And I've never regretted it, either.

Woman Ordered Held for Jury in Saugerties Case

A 41-year-old Ohio woman, arrested with two others on March 9 on a charge of first degree grand larceny involving the alleged theft of a pocketbook containing $650, was ordered held for grand jury action after appearing Monday night before Saugerties Village Police Justice David Goble.

Ludella Williams of Cleveland, was ordered held for further investigation. Two other women arrested with her were released after charges against them were dismissed on motion of Assistant District Attorney Francis Vogt. They were Anita Owens, 32, of 633 West 142nd Street, New York City and Randy Coyle, 23, of St. Louis, Mo

State Police apprehended the trio on the State Thruway near New Baltimore after Mrs. Vivian Schultz, operator of Vivian's Dress Shop on Partition Street, Saugerties, notified Police Chief Gordon Keeley her pocketbook had been stolen.

Teletype alarms were sent out last Thursday by village authorities and roadblocks were set up. The car containing the trio was stopped after troopers noticed the registration number checked with the number reported by Mrs. Schultz.

According to troopers, Mrs. Schultz's pocketbook was found in a garbage pail at the Malden rest area, north of Saugerties on the Thruway. The Ohio woman reportedly had more than $300 on her person when the troopers took her in custody.

Chief Keely said yesterday that he had received an inquiry from police at Old Greenwich, Conn., about the Williams wowoman. Authorities said a similar theft occurred in that community less than a month ago.

Crimes Against Property Listed Higher by FBI

NEW YORK (AP) — Figures released by the FBI today show crimes against property generally increased in major cities across New York State in 1966 but reveal no uniform trend in the incidence of crimes of violence.

Among the seven cities reporting, Buffalo and Rochester each showed increases in the number of offenses in six of seven crime categories over 1965 figures. Four of the seven categories involved violent crimes and three property crimes.

Significant Increases

Both cities had significant increases in the number of murders reported.

Comparative figures for 1965 were not included for New York City, due to a change in reporting procedures. But figures released here Tuesday showed there was a murder every 13½ hours in the city last year.

Police commissioner Howard R. Leary said a department survey showed that the 654 persons murdered in 1966 reflected a rise of 3.3 per cent over the 633 slain in 1965.

Of the 1966 murder victims, 343, or 52 per cent, were slain in their homes, usually by relatives. Of the total, 257 occurred in Manhattan.

Syracuse reported decreases in four of the seven crime categories with moderate increases in the number of aggravated assaults and burglaries.

Down in Albany

Murders and aggravated assaults were down slightly in Albany but increases were reported in the other categories including a near 40 per cent rise in burglaries.

Buffalo showed a 50 per cent increase in murder cases, from 16 in 1965 to 24 in 1966. Robberies were reported down but burglaries were up by 22 per cent from 3,899 in 1965 to 4,758 last year.

Niagara Falls reported no increases in any of the violent crimes categories but showed crimes against property up in all categories.

Police in Rochester reported 30 murders in 1966 compared to 12 in 1965 and increases in all other categories as well with the exception of forcible rapes.

In Utica crimes against property decreased in all categories but crimes of violence were generally up. The city reported three cases of murder last year versus none in 1965.

Yonkers showed a decrease in murders from 17 in 1965 to 6 in 1966 and in forcible rapes from 10 to 5.

The FBI report included figures for cities over 100,000 in population.

Faulty Burner Blamed

Ulster Hose Company responded to a minor alarm at 5:15 p. m. Tuesday after fire was reported at the residence owned by Michael Perry on East Chester Street bypass. Firemen reported a faulty burner caused minor damage before a small flame was extinguished with a CO-2 extinguisher. Four officers and one lineman answere the call with a pumper in command of Chief William Fischang and Assistant Chief William Williams. The unit was back in service at 6:40 p. m.

Red Gunners Flee

Marines Ready For Rocket Hit

SAIGON (AP) — Communist gunners firing from a maximum range of seven miles unloaded 15 big rockets on the giant U.S. air base at Da Nang today and had to flee under a hail of return fire less than two minutes later.

Stung by a similar rocket attack on the base two and a half weeks ago, the Marines were alert for this one. Radar-directed gunfire was being laid on the Red launching positions within 120 seconds of the first explosion inside the base, U.S. spokesmen reported.

16 Yanks Injured

Helicopter gunships pounced on the Red positions. Flare ships unloaded 135 parachute flares. Two of the twin-engine C47s called "Puff the Magic Dragon" because of their special Gatling guns sprayed the Red positions with a 55,700 rounds of minigun ammunition.

The Communists' 140mm Soviet rockets, the biggest in their arsenal, damaged three U.S. planes and injured 16 American soldiers.

A U.S. spokesman announcing the casualties admitted somewhat sheepishly that technically none were wounded.

"There was a sort of mad dash for the bunkers up there," he said. "The casualties were all sprained backs, scraped knees and things like that. That is why we used the word injured."

The three planes will be repaired, the spokesman aid.

In the last rocket attack on Da Nang Feb. 27, the first in which the Communists used the 140mm weapons, the Reds fired 52 rounds into the base and an adjacent civilian village, killed 12 Americans and 32 South Vietnamese and wounded 35 Americans and 70 Vietnamese.

Destroyers Pound Coast

Other significant items listed in the daily military communique included a ground sweep in the Kontum area by U.S. 4th Infantry Division soldiers in which 17 Americans were killed and 26 were wounded Tuesday, and the salvage of a Communist arms-running trawler that has already disgorged 700 Chinese carbines and a small arsenal of other arms and ammunition.

U.S. pilots hit North Vietnam with 116 missions Tuesday and four destroyers pounded the North Vietnamese coast. One destroyer was fired upon but silenced the Communist shore battery without damage to itself.

Ground troops were sent out at daybreak to pursue the Communist rocketeers, and a U.S. Marine officer reported a ragged column was seen fleeing toward a mountain area southwest of Da Nang. Strafing planes reportedly had the Red soldiers under fire.

The attack was launched from an isolated spot on the Yen River southwest of Da Nang. When ground forces reached the spot, they found 23 rocket launchers and 11 of the 90-pound rockets which the Communists had not had time to fire.

Press Search for 200

Ground activity, although relatively light, centers in the vital central highlands where there has been a flurry of bitter skirmishes in recent days.

The 2nd Brigade of the 4th Infantry Division was reported pressing the search for about 200 North Vietnamese soldiers who faded into the jungle after the battle Tuesday.

In that fight, the U.S. force had 17 killed and 26 wounded but a sweep of the battlefield turned up 29 North Vietnamese bodies.

Reporting on the salvage operation of the Communist trawler on the sandy beaches of Quang Ngai Province, the spokesman said the take now includes 700 carbines, 7,000 rounds of ammunition, 50 machine guns, a large number of mortar rounds and much more.

Although the ship evidently was slipping down the coast from North Vietnam, only 100 miles away, the spokesman refused to speculate about where it came from. U.S. warships drove the 100-foot boat aground, and its crew blew it up.

Clearing skies over North Vietnam enabled U.S. pilots to rake supply and military targets up and down the country.

A pilot from the carrier Ticonderoga reported damaging a Red torpedo boat—a rarely seen target — in a tidal waterway 40 miles east of Haiphong.

FLEXIBLE SYSTEM—Using magnetic disks and tape as well as punched cards, the Model 20 gives the small businessman and first-computer user a flexible system. The central processing unit, to be built at Boca Raton, has as attachments various electronic reading, writing, and auxiliary storage devices, and takes input data from punched cards, magnetic tapes or disks. Here an operator is removing cards from the IBM 2560 multi-function machine, which can accept two card decks at once. The IBM 2501 card reader (foreground) can read an additional 1,000 cards a minute. The processing unit (center), has a memory capacity of up to 16,384 characters and can retrieve information from memory in 3.6-millionths of a second.

Rocky Disappointed

Legislature Presses Toward Approval of Record N. Y. Budget

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Legislature pressed ahead today toward approval of Gov. Rockefeller's record budget after trimming the $4.68-billion spending plan by $30 million to $40 million.

Holds Out Hope

Even as the legislators swung into action, Rockefeller expressed "disappointment" over the proposed cuts. The Republican governor held out hope that "critical and important" spending might be restored later in the annual supplemental budget.

The supplemental budget, submitted near the close of the legislation session, often is used as a device to restore funds clipped from the original financial blueprint.

The proposed budget cuts were revealed Tuesday by the Legislature's fiscal committees —the Senate Finance Committee and the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

All told, a total of $83.6 million in requested appropriations was trimmed from Rockefeller's original request for a $4.68-billion spending and income plan. But spokesmen explained that actual expenditures would be reduced by only the $30 million to $40 million because some of the cuts were made from expenditures that actually would not have been made in the next fiscal year, which begins April 1.

While the budget occupied prime attention at the Capitol today, the Assembly also had on its agenda three separate direct - primary bills. The measures would set up primary elections for statewide offices.

The plan in the Democratic-dominated Assembly was to pass the three bills, one of which already has been approved by the GOP - controlled Senate, thus forcing the governor or the Senate to make the next move.

Trying for Today

Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia said he would attempt to obtain passage of the budget bills today. Leaders in the Senate said they also would confer on the various cuts and try to gain endorsement today or Thursday.

Hardest hit in the annual trimming procedure was the Metropolitan Commuter Transportation Authority. Appropriations totaling more than $45 million in construction funds were withheld "pending further investigation and study" of Rockefeller's proposed transportation program, the fiscal committees said.

The governor has asked for a $2.5-billion transportation bond issue to help finance a proposed $6.4-billion transit expansion in the state over the next five years.

In addition to the cuts agreed upon by both fiscal committees, the individual committees recommended additional trimming in the budget. The areas of disagreement will be worked out in negotiations among the legislative leaders, fiscal specialists and Rockefeller.

As an example, the Assembly Ways and Means Committee sought to cut $85 million in operating and construction funds from the new Narcotics Addiction Control Commission.

Balk at Cuts

The Senate Finance Committee refused to accept the cuts, despite the Assembly committee's contention that the commission could not hire enough personnel to get the program moving fast enough to use all the money.

Rockefeller protested that the cuts might "force actual cutbacks in some programs of vital importance to the people."

The fiscal committee chairmen — Sen. Warren M. Anderson, R - Binghamton, and Assemblyman Harvey M. Lifset, D-Albany —issued a statement, however, saying:

"Our cuts were made to avoid duplication of effort and in areas where we felt state departments had overstated their needs."

In addition to the $45 million withheld from the commuter authority, the committees also:

— Denied $5,000 salary increases Rockefeller had requested for State Education Commissioner James E. Allen Jr. and State University Chancellor Samuel Gould. Both now are paid $40,000 a year.

—Pruned by $800,000—to $3.2 million — requests for funds to provide pay increases to State University faculty members. The committees said the $3.2 million would permit an average pay boost of 7.5 per cent.

—Trimmed $2 million from a for the State Education Department to finance special programs aimed at correcting racial imbalance in public schools. The committee noted that the remaining $3 million was $2 million more than the amount granted the project this fiscal year.

—Rejected 122 new positions requested for the Conservation Department.

In relation to the Narcotics Addiction Control Commission dispute, the Democrats gained one concession as Republicans agreed to a provision specifying that no addict could be committed unless the agency agreed.

Previously, the courts had the power to commit an addict for treatment without consulting the commission.

Curran Charges Waste of State Funds by Audit

With the March 21 village election in Rosendale fast approaching, the campaign for election of a mayor and trustee continues to be a heated one.

In a discussion Wednesday night with village voters, William P. Curran, candidate for mayor, charged that his Democratic opponent Joseph Reid and Joseph LaFera, candidate for trustee, have wasted some $2,000 to $3,000 of state monies which he estimates was the cost of having the recent village audit by the State Department of Audit and Control.

Curran said the Department of Audit and Control regularly on a schedule audits the village books. Rosendale was not scheduled for an audit this past year. However, Trustees Reid and LeFera, upon assuming office last April, demanded an immediate audit of the village books by the state, he said.

The audit started in December, continued during January, February and March 1967 and at times there were two auditors present.

Curran, the Republican candidate, running against Reid, Democrat, charges that a reasonable estimate of the cost of the audit would be in the vicinity of $2,000 to $3,000 and that these men could have been used elsewhere in performing their scheduled assignments.

Curran charges that the audit was not necessary at this time, since the village was scheduled for one in the near future.

The audit was "politically motivated," Curran charges, "in an attempt to discover some irregularities." The audit has been completed and to date, Curran says, and although a final report has not been received, no irregularities have been brought to the attention of the village officials.

Curran charges this calling for a special audit indicates that candidates Reid and LaFera are not interested in economy, either at the local or state level and charges the audit was sought for "political motives," which resulted in extra work with the cost to be born by the taxpayers of the State of New York.

Lonesome Republican

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Things get a little lonesome once in a while for the 10 Republicans in Oklahoma's Senate.

So Sen. Don Ferrell, publisher of the Lincoln County News at Chandler, decided Tuesday he would go someplace where he would be in the majority for a change — a luncheon meeting of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society.

After voting on an item of business that passed unanimously, Ferrell commented, "That's the first thing I've voted for all week that passed."

HOWARD L. DAVIDSON

A Newburgh native, Howard L. Davidson, who has been named general manager of IBM's proposed new plant in Boca Raton, Fla., joined the corporation in Poughkeepsie in 1948.

After working in several assembly and test areas, he was promoted in 1955 to manager of a computer testing department. He subsequently held several managerial positions before transferring in 1964 to IBM's World Trade Corporation as assistant to the plant general manager, Italy. While in that position he assisted the Italian plant in the introduction of Model 20 manufacturing.

He returned to the domestic corporation in 1966 as assistant to the general manager of the East Fishkill plant. Later that year he became program manager, test and manufacturing equipment engineering the position he held until his promotion to general manager, IBM Boca Raton.

Davidson attended Newburgh schools, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, and the IBM Management Training School at Sands Point.

Deny Federal Aid Monies to Ulster, Area

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller said today the federal government had turned down his request to add 15 New York State counties to the Appalachia anti-poverty program.

Rockefeller requested last month that the Appalachian Regional Commission consider adding the counties to the 13 New York counties already included in the 12-state program.

Rockefeller said he was "disappointed" that the request was rejected and added that he hoped the counties would be included at a later date.

Rockefeller had sought admission into the program for the following counties:

Schoharie, Greene, Ulster, Sullivan, Montgomery, Fulton, Herkimer, Madison, Cayuga, Seneca, Yates, Ontario, Livingston, Wayne and Wyoming.

The Appalachia project is designed to brace local economies in depressed areas through construction programs and educational improvements.

New York State counties already in the program are:

Broome, Cattaraugus, Chautauqua, Chenango, Cortland, Chemung, Delaware, Otsego, Schuyler, Steuben, Tioga, Tompkins and Allegany.

Tampa; the Production Systems group at Oakland Park; as well as the group that will staff the new Boca Raton facility. Five years ago IBM had about 500 employes in the state.

Davidson said the new plant would bring in a blend of manufacturing and other technical professional skills required for the complex product engineering, testing, and assembly of electronic systems.

Alphabet Disadvantage

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — A Maryland legislator, Delegate Eugene J. Zander told the House of Delegates it should end "the tyranny of the alphabet"—the practice of listing candidates on the ballot in alphabetical order.

Delegate B.O. Aiken said the practice suits him to a T, although it can be a disadvantage to be listed first.

"In the Army," he said, "I got a right many duties because of my last name's place on the detail roster."

WORLD ALMANAC

With approximately 23,000 miles of high-speed, superroads completed, the National System of Interstate and Defense Highways was more than half-finished by the end of 1966, says The World Almanac. By 1975, the 41,000-mile network of roads is expected to be completed. Total cost is estimated to be about $51 billion—the federal government will pay 90 per cent and the states 10 per cent. The finished interstate system will link 90 per cent of all cities in the United States with a population of over 50,000.

Knights, Masons Set Joint Dinner At Bear Mountain

The first annual Knights and Masons joint brotherhood dinner will be held May 6 at the Bear Mountain Inn, it was announced today in a joint announcement from the two organizations.

Twenty masonic lodges from Rockland and Orange Counties and 33 Knights of Columbus councils from the Hudson Valley Chapter will participate in another joint venture by the two organizations.

In the past two years, members of the Masonic lodges and Knights of Columbus councils in Rockland and Orange Counties have jointly held a parade, attended the World's Fair and attended each other's meetings for the installation of officers.

Co-chairmen of the dinner are Daniel T. Becker, former state assemblyman, of Newburgh, and Frank Gibney of Highland Falls, both of whom are district deputies for their respective organizations and were the originators of the dinner.

The guest speakers at the dinner will be James E. Foley, New York State Deputy of the Knights of Columbus and Harry Ostrov, past grand master of the New York State Grand Lodge.

The masonic lodges participating in the dinner are from Rockland and Orange Counties, while the councils come from Rockland, Orange, Sullivan, Ulster and Dutchess Counties.

Members of the committee include: Becker, Gibney, Edward Rose, chairman of the Hudson Valley chapter of the Knights; Cam Thompson, of Newburgh; and Thomas Murphy, grand knight of the Highland Falls Knights of Columbus.

Chairman Named For ARC Member Drive This Month

Announcement was made here of the appointment of Mrs. Robert A. Chieffo of Woodstock to head the membership drive of the Ulster County Chapter New York State Association for Retarded Children in March. The announcement was made by Edward Crosby, president of the Ulster County Chapter.

As she accepted the chairmanship Mrs. Chieffo said, "We have chosen as the theme for our drive the slogan They Need You Now. In our membership drive we will devote our every effort to reach each citizen of Ulster County to demonstrate convincingly why the mentally retarded need that citizen and why they need him now.

"We are undertaking an enormous task, but we have much of interest to tell. All across the country an awakening is taking place to ways which mental retardation can be prevented and ways in which the mentally retarded can be a benefit to the community rather than a burden.

"We believe that, by the end of this drive, many people in Ulster County will want to join us in carrying out these progressive programs in the years ahead."

The drive here is part of a nation-wide membership effort being conducted by the 1100 units of the National Association for Retarded Children of which the Ulster County Chapter is one. The Ulster County Chapter of the New York State Association for retarded Children is a member unit of he Ulster County Community Chest.

And More to Come

$1,529,700,000,000 Is Total U. S. Debt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Savor for a moment the figure $1,529,700,000,000.

That's trillion, not billion, and the Treasury Department says it represents total outstanding debt—federal, individual, state, local and corporate—as of last Dec. 31. The total increased $99.1 billion in one year.

The department says there is even more to come, at least as far as the federal government is concerned

Higher and Higher

In testimony made public Tuesday night by the House Appropriations Committee, Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler said the government will continue to run deficits at least until the end of the Vietnam war That means higher debt.

Although the national debt is now slightly above $330 billion, the department plans to ask Congress in May to raise the debt ceiling again, possibly as high as $346 billion. It now is $336 billion.

The debt is scheduled to reach $335.4 billion by June 30, 1968, but it is expected to go temporarily higher before then.

Asked by Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., if the administration will ever recommend a balanced budget, Fowler replied: "I do, Mr. Chairman, believe that there will be administrations that will recommend balanced budgets.

"Indeed, I would be so bold as to say that I believe there will be administrations that will recommend budgets which will provide for surpluses and some reduction of the federal debt."

Fowler said that time would probably come after the Vietnam war and the subsequent adjustment period when the economy returns to normal.

The federal debt was 133.9 per cent of the total value of goods and services produced in the economy in 1946 but it is expected to be only 24.9 per cent of the gross national product for the current fiscal year.

22 Cents of Dollar

As of Dec. 31, the federal debt accounted for 22 cents out of every dollar in over-all debt compared with 58 cents in 1946, the Treasury said.

Over the same period, individual debt increased from 13 per cent of the total to 32 per cent while corporate debt rose from 25 to 39 per cent. State and local governments, which accounted for 4 per cent of total debt in 1946, boosted their share to 7 per cent as of Dec. 31.

In addition to the federal debt of $329.8 billion as of Dec. 31, the Treasury said, state and local governments owed $109 billion, corporations owed $599.2 billion and individuals and unincorporated businesses owed $491.7 billion.

The Federal Reserve Board estimated consumer credit alone at $94.8 billion at the end of the year and total mortgage loans outstanding at $336.2 billion — more than the federal debt.

Uncover Pretty Coed As Narcotics Agent

MADISON, N.J. (AP) — A pretty coed who was enrolled as a special student in film art at Fairleigh Dickinson University has been uncovered as an undercover narcotics agent spying on students.

"Well, this blows this caper," moaned detective Paul McKenna of the Morris County prosecutor's office.

"Boy, I'm in the middle of a pickle," cooed the coed, auburn-haired, 20-year-old Linda Hobbie.

"The placement of an undercover agent as a fake student is Orwellian in nature," protested the American Civil Liberties Union of New Jersey.

Charities Start '67 Fund Appeal At Meeting Here

Plans for the participation of the 22 Catholic parishes of Ulster County in the 1967 Fund Appeal of New York Catholic Charities were formulated Tuesday at an organization meeting held at Benedictine Hospital, Kingston.

Attending were priests who will direct the Appeal in their respective parishes and representatives of Catholic Charities headquarters in Manhattan.

Francis Cardin Spellman has designated the period of April 23 to May 3 for this 48th annual appeal. The goal has been placed at $3,700,000, to be raised by personal solicitation of Catholic families and through special gifts obtained by the Cardinal's Committee of the Laity.

Principle speakers at the meeting were the Rt. Rev. Msgr. James P. McKeown, director of finance at Catholic Charities and the Rev. Patrick J. Carney of the county offices of Catholic Charities. They outlined the services of Catholic Charities and its 203 affiliated welfare institutions and agencies which last year reached 551,858 persons, together with the organization's objectives for 1967. Particular stress was laid on Catholic Charities efforts to keep families together and to avoid placement of children in child caring institutions.

Priest directors will now start organizing their own parishes, appointing, by chairman and committees and working out procedures to be followed in the house-to-house solicitation. Supervising between Catholic Charities and the parishes will be the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Richard B. Curtin of St. Peter's Church, Rosendale and the Rev. James V. Keating of St. Joseph's Church, Kingston, district managers for Ulster County.

Rosendale Votes On Fire Truck Bond March 21

Taxpayers in the village of Rosendale will vote on purchase of much needed fire truck at the village election March 21.

Firemen of Active Hose No. 1, Rosendale report the truck is needed to replace the vehicle which has served the village for over 30 years. The new equipment is to be financed through a bond issue not exceeding $22,000, to be paid over a 10 year period.

It has been noted that purchase of the new truck should not cause any increase in taxes as payment on the fire company's GMC truck was recently completed and payments on the firehouse and village hall will be completed this year.

Calling for a favorable vote on the bond issue, firemen feel the new truck is essential to provide adequate protection in the village.

When the Fire Underwriters last inspected the village five years ago, the suggested replacement of the obsolete equipment. It is possible fire insurance classification could be changed, causing increased rates.

New buildings and homes in the area were cited as additional reasons for increased fire protection.

FBI Reports

Serious Crime Surges Upward By 11 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Serious crime in the United States surged upward 11 per cent last year, with the sharpest rise reported in smaller cities, the Federal Bureau of Investigation said today.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said crime in cities with fewer than 10,000 inhabitants rose 14 per cent from 1965. In cities with more than 100,000 it was up 10 per cent. In suburban areas the rise was 13 per cent and in the country, 7 per cent.

Cite Increases

Individual increases among serious crimes were:

—Murder 9 per cent.
—Aggravated assault, 10 per cent.
—Forcible rape, 10 per cent.
—Robbery, 14 per cent.

The figures came from the FBI's uniform crime reports, which are gathered from law enforcement agencies across the nation.

The figures showed that nationally, police solved 25 per cent of offenses in the crime index which were brought to their attention. This compares with 26.3 per cent solved in 1965.

Police solved 89 per cent of murders, 65 per cent of forcible rapes, 35 per cent of robberies, 72 per cent of aggravated assaults and 23 per cent of burglaries. They also solved 25 per cent of auto thefts and 14 per cent of larcenies over $50.

Fewer Adults

Arrest figures in the FBI report show that 1 per cent fewer adults were arrested last year than in 1965, but that arrests of those under 18 were up 9 per cent.

In cities with more than 100,000 residents, adult arrests were down 3 per cent and juvenile arrests were up 7 per cent. In suburban areas 2 per cent more adults were arrested and 11 per cent more juveniles. In rural areas adult arrests declined 3 per cent, but juvenile arrests were up 9 per cent.

Hoover noted that serious assaults in which a gun was used as the weapon soared 23 per cent. The FBI statement accompanying the figures said Hoover reiterated "the need for adequate firearms legislation" in this connection.

Hoover never has stated specifically the type of legislation he wants. Aides say this is in keeping with his long-standing rule of not commenting on legislation.

Maryland Backs Off Compact Plan With N. Y., Pennsy

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Maryland has backed off temporarily from joining in a compact with Pennsylvania, New York and the federal government on development and control of the Susquehanna River.

The Senate Economics Affairs Committee yielded to pressure from Baltimore and tabled action for this year.

An interstate advisory committee of three members from New York, and four each from Maryland and Pennsylvania had recommended the compact.

It would become effective 30 days after the three states and Congress approve it. It is before the New York Legislature and will be submitted in Pennsylvania next month.

Sen. Joseph A. Bertorelli, D-Balto, persuaded the committee not to push the compact to the floor.

He produced a letter from Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin pointing out the city has invested $40 million in building pipelines to tap the Susquehanna River and that it drew 21 billion gallons last year. The Baltimore water system also serves neighboring Baltimore, Howard, Anne Arundel and Harford counties.

$5.05 Milk Price

NEW YORK (AP) — A uniform farm price of $5.05 per hundredweight, or 46.5 quarts, will be paid dairy farmers for milk deliveries to pool handlers in the New York-New Jersey milkshed during February.

A. J. Pollard, market administrator, also announced Tuesday that the producer butterfat differential was set at 6 cents for each tenth of a pound of fat above or below the 3.5 per cent standard.

Pollard's report also said:

— Receipts from dairy farmers were 40,840,896 pounds, or 4.5 per cent under February, 1966, and sales of fluid milk declined 19,292,557 pounds, or 4.3 per cent.

— Dairymen delivered 862,217,631 pounds of milk. Of this amount, 431,673,213 pounds were sold as fluid. Deliveries totaled 903,058,527 pounds and Class I milk totaled 450,965,770 pounds last year.

— Fluid milk accounted for 50.1 per cent of the pool compared with 49.9 per cent a year ago. Handlers paid $5.99 per hundredweight for milk received within 201-to-210 miles of New York City.

Treed a Bob Cat

TITUSVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Suzette is only a miniature poodle but thinks — with some justification — that it's a mighty hunter. Mrs. Joyce Ellis' pet chased a fullgrown bobcat up a utility pole and kept the snarling predator there until a policeman arrived and shot it.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Poodles are the most popular purebred dogs in the United States, says The World Almanac. Of a record 722,800 purebred dogs registered in 1965, 207,393 were poodles. The next most popular dogs were German shepherds with 78,241 registered and beagles with 56,128. At the bottom of the scale, there were only three curly-coated retrievers registered and no field spaniels, Sussex spaniels or English foxhounds.

Physicist's Views

Large-scale Use Of Anti-ICBM's Termed as Threat

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A nuclear physicist says large-scale use by either the United States or the Soviet Union of antiballistic missile defense systems would threaten survival of all inhabitants of the Northern Hemisphere.

But Dr. E.J. Sternglass' contention that mid-air explosions of defensive weapons and incoming missiles would result in massive radioactive fallout was disputed today by another nuclear physicist, Dr. Ralph E. Lapp of Washington, D.C.

Would Rule Out Deposit

Lapp said America's ABM system — and presumably the Soviet Union's — essentially would rule out deposit of lethal quantities of fallout on the earth from the explosion of nuclear-tipped ABMs aloft.

Sternglass, past chairman of the Pittsburgh, Pa., chapter of the Federation of American Scientists declared: "This danger arises from the great increase in the total amount of radioactive materials which would necessarily be released into the atmosphere by the multimegaton ABM missiles required to destroy the incoming warheads."

Lapp, who worked on the wartime A-bomb development but is not now associated with the government's nuclear program, told a reporter he believes Sternglass' view is based on an incorrect interpretation of how radioactive debris — released by an exploding ABM — would be deployed.

Question Assumption

He said Sternglass was assuming incorrectly that the defensive explosions all would take place at comparatively low altitudes in the atmosphere — thus depositing relatively large quantities of fallout on the earth, and relatively quickly. Lapp also indicated he felt Sternglass was applying to high-exploding missiles fallout data gleaned from nuclear bursts at comparatively low altitudes.

In contrast, he indicated, the American defensive system is designed to have the explosions occur at altitudes at least 10 miles high.

Radioactive debris loosed by such high altitude detonations he said, would become "global radioactivity" — circling the earth but high above it, and subject to steady decay. He indicated that much of this might eventually come down and pose some limited health threats, but "it would not be lethal fallout."

He said the kind of hemispheric threat from radioactivity which Sternglass envisioned could prevail "... if the fire balls (from exploding ABMs) all came close to the earth's surface."

Note New Majority

NEW YORK (AP) — For the first time a majority of the pupils in New York City's vast school system are Negroes or Puerto Ricans.

Supt. Bernard E. Donovan said a census, made in October, showed 544,227, or 50.2 per cent, of the 1,084,818 pupils were either Negro or Puerto Rican with the remaining 49.8 per cent made up of whites, asians and American Indians.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By Sophie Miller

I always enjoy receiving a letter from Raymond Van Valkenburgh, who now lives in Woodstock and was for many years principal of School No. 4. He is well versed and a collector of local Indian lore and items. He writes in part: "Some of the readers of your column no doubt lived in the old village of West Hurley before they moved it to build the Ashokan Dam."

Mr. Van Valkenburgh continues: "In these days of insecurity, indifference and insolence they must fondly remember, as I do, its quiet streets, dusty but safe to cross; its friendly neighbors; its three general stores owned an operated by Humphrey Everett, Levi Dumond, and P. M. Barton, respectively, where a boy with a penny for a stick of candy was welcome with a smile while he lingered to select the biggest treat from the tempting abundance of sweets in the show case, and to enjoy the delightful fragrance of coffee, spices, leather and soap that filled the air like incense."

Mr. Van Valkenburgh's memories take him back to the Ulster and Delaware Railroad station, with the huge water tank and freight house nearby and across the tracks the mill where they cut thick blocks of bluestone to be shipped to New York City for curb stones. He also remembers the noisy telegraph key in the station, chattering out messages unheeded by the agent. He also writes about the long freight trains hauled by powerful steam locomotives that roared past the station or stopped on a side track to take on water and wait for a southbound passenger train. The passenger trains from Kingston stopped there with long, loud whistling sounds from their air brakes, to discharge interesting passengers from New York, to be picked up, bag and baggage by restless, waiting teams from near-by summer resorts.

Mr. Van Valkenburgh remembers all these parts of live history taking place, before the days of movies, radio and television. Today whatever is left of those days must be seen in museums. The Dept. of Commerce from New York State just sent me their illustrated 1967 book of where to go and what to see. I think they left out John Burroughs's Slabsides, although his Roxbury landmark is in the book.

Those who visit New York City as I did many years ago, will find many exhibits free, of course each museum has its own hours. At Fraunces Tavern, 54 Pearl Street, Kingstonians can see a structure which was built and 1719 and restored in 1907. In the Long Room, Washington said farewell to officers of the Continental Army on Dec. 4, 1783. The Museum on the 3rd floor has Revolutionary War relics and art gallery. There is even a restaurant on the first floor.

Those who are interested in seeing some 300 ship models go to the Marine Museum of Seamen's Church Institute, at 25 South Street. Many Marine paintings, rope work and nautical instruments and sea curios are shown. If you want to read across the Post Office building, above the Corinthian colonnade, the postal service motto: "Neither snow nor rain nor heat nor gloom of night stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds"—then go to 8th Avenue at 31st Street. It is the largest post office in our country. Chase Manhattan Bank has a Money Museum on 6th Avenue at 50th Street where you can see a free exhibit of coins and paper money. You could spend a day easily going from one free exhibit to another all over New York, and the historical landmarks and items would give you more pride of your own hometown in Kingston and Ulster County and what is left of it after the bulldozers get through with it.

Accuse Buffalo Man In Shooting of Eight

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — A 23-year-old man is accused of the shotgun shooting of eight teen-agers while they waited for a bus in South Buffalo.

Joseph Tunis of Buffalo was charged with second-degree assault Tuesday. He appeared before Judge James B. Kane Jr. of City Court and was released without bail.

Tunis was identified by one of the teen-agers involved in the shooting Sunday, detectives said.

All eight are between 14 and 16 years old. Seven were girls.

Three of the girls were admitted to Mercy Hospital with pellet wounds in the back and legs and were listed in satisfactory condition. The others were treated and released.

A 12-gauge shotgun was used, police said.

Tunis' friend was stabbed in a tavern about 20 minutes before the shooting, police said. Tunis and other friends of the wounded man apparently armed themselves and sought revenge, police said.

The teen-agers were shot in the mistaken belief that they were involved in the tavern stabbing, detectives added.

Urges Restrictions On Dairy Imports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Barber B. Conable Jr. R-N.Y., has called for emergency restrictions on dairy imports to stem what he terms a developing crisis in the American dairy industry.

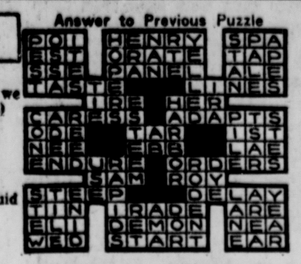

The legislator from Alexander said Tuesday that he wrote to Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman to initiate such action. "Existing law already permits the President to take remedial action in circumstances like this and I urge that he do so," Conable wrote.

Conable said there were loopholes in the present dairy quota system and they had permitted imports to triple in 1966, "severly injuring the markets for American diary products."

"If changes aren't made in the quota system soon, more and more dairy farmers are going to be forced out. Our dairy industry is in deep trouble," he asserted.

Rock Pooh-Poohs Political Life, Has Other Goal

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Scratch the name of Rock Hudson from my list of Hollywood box-office kings who may aspire to enter the political arena.

Although he admits to some government experience — he once was a mail carrier for three months — the 6-foot-4 film star says it left him without any burning desire to become U.S. postmaster general.

"Politics bores me, and so does talking about it," he said smiling. "I'm not interested in becoming a political candidate at any level.

"After Ronald Reagan was elected governor of California, I did have a dream that I was running for sheriff, but even in the dream I couldn't figure out for the life of me why I wanted to be sheriff. It was a real nightmare."

What is Hudson's big goal then, if not public service?

"I want to be a damn good actor," he said, "and I don't think I'm a damn good actor yet."

Whatever his ultimate professional ranking may be, as a performer Hudson has been one of the most successful in the history of the film industry.

Since 1948, he has been in 52 pictures, an average of more than 2½ each year. In 1966 he turned out three — "Blindford" "Seconds" and "Tobruk".

More at Ease Now

As the years go by Hudson is more at ease in the role of film star a part he found difficult to play at first because of an almost overwhelming feeling of shyness which has bothered him since he was a big awkward kid in his native town, Winnetka, Ill.

"I used to be terribly, painfully shy — so shy that I wouldn't talk," he recalled. "Now I'm no longer painfully shy but I'm still shy. A lot of midwest children are that way, and I don't know exactly why.

OK Tax, Reapport On One Referendum

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state's highest court has ruled that voters in Buffalo can decide the question of a new city sales tax and reapportionment of the Erie County Board of Supervisors on the same referendum.

The Court of Appeals' decision Tuesday came as the result of two cases that were brought because of a special referendum on reapportionment ordered for March 28.

The state's courts earlier had directed that a Republican-approved reapportionment plan be voted on by residents of Erie County on March 28.

Democrats in Erie County and Buffalo objected to the GOP - drawn redistricting plan. The Buffalo City Council, controlled by Democrats, retaliated by passing a law calling for a vote on whether to impose a 1 per cent sales tax.

Trinitymen Move 6 Games in Front, Capture Pennant

Trinity wrapped up the Saugerties Dartball League pennant with a flourish in play this week by taking a clean 3 to 0 sweep over Malden-West Camp. In undisputed lead for most of the season, the Trinitymen have now emerged as grand champions for the second year in a row.

Sweeps were pretty much the order of the evening in other series played. Other 3 to 0 scores were rolled up by West Camp over High Woods, Centerville over South Side Men's Club and Golden Eagles over American Legion. Two teams took 2 to 1 splits over their opponents with Quarryville edging Cementon and Saugerties Contractors nipping Centerville Vols.

With the pennant all sewed up, only one week remains for regular play before teams go into the play-offs. The season will end with a banquet and World Series in April and tickets for this affair are due on March 20.

Stratton Outlines Own Plan for End Of Vietnam War

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., advanced today a Vietnam peace plan he said should convince North Vietnam "that it will be decidedly to their advantage to stop fighting and start talking."

He urged a cease-fire amnesty for Viet Cong and North Vietnam prisoners but no territorial gains for the Hanoi government.

Stratton also proposed exploration of the possibility of reuniting North and South Vietnam and substantial redevelopment aid for both parts of that country, he said in a speech for an honors convention at the School of Forestry, Syracuse University.

He also said that, on the home front, "it is time to call a halt to the bitter arguments about what we should or shouldn't be doing to lure the North Vietnamese to the conference table."

Those discussions, he said, are 'disrupting and dissipating our military determination at a crucial time."

This was an apparent reference to Stratton's fellow New York Democrat, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, who has urged that U.S. bombing of North Vietnam be halted in an effort to bring about peace talks.

Bilingual Children

MIAMI (AP)—A second public school is going bilingual in this city with a large colony of Cuban exiles. Pupils at Central Beach Elementary School, which is evenly divided between native speakers of Spanish and English, will receive instruction in all subject areas in both languages starting with the fall term. The program starts at kindergarten level. The idea is to make all pupils bilingual.

Incident in London

Breaches Ban Of Plush Savoy With Britches

By RONALD THOMSON

LONDON (AP) — The wife of a titled British racing driver breached the Savoy dining room's ban on women in trousers but the distinguished London hotel says it won't happen again.

The rule breaker was a Swedish-born brunette model, the wife of 29-year-old Sir John Whitmore. London newspapers reported today that she sailed into the dining room and nobody said a word about her trousers.

Probably Full Cut

A spokesman for the hotel suggested that Lady Whitmore's pants were probably cut full and looked like a skirt. He said the rule against trousered ladies in the Savoy's dining room still stands.

Television producer Cathy McGowan reported she phoned the hotel to book a table two days after Lady Whitmore's triumph.

"No trousers, Miss McGowan," she was told.

"I think she got in because she is Lady Whitmore," said the lady's husband, who has driven at Le Mans, in the Monte Carlo rally and was European sedan car champion in 1965. "This is damned old-fashioned, stuck up and pompous."

Has Got to Stop

"This has got to stop," said the conservative Daily Mail in a front-page editorial.

Recalling the long skirts of Christian Dior's "New Look" 20 years ago, it said since then "there has been a steady progress toward the hard, brittle and exposed outlines of today.

"Are women happy with this state of affairs?" the editorial continued. "Are they content with their cropped hair, their thin, pale lips, their black-rimmed, haunted eyes?

"The first woman who dined at the Savoy in trousers should also be the last."

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Folks:

Most people let mud dry, scrape it off with a knife, and THEN try to wash it out of clothes.

This is good in some cases.

But so help me Hannah, I have learned (because I work in my garden and get mud on my white blouses and clothes) that the minute you or one of your children come in the house with mud on your clothes . . . remove the garment immediately, hold it under your cold water faucet and rinse as much off as you can. Then soak the garment in a bowl of COLD water.

Here's why:

We all know that cotton goods have fibers. (Fibers are tiny threads that are woven together to produce the beautiful materials our clothes are made of.

Doesn't it stand to reason that as long as anything dirty and damp (that's the mud) remains on the cloth that it soaks into tiniest fibers even more?

If you act right away by rinsing the garment, the mud won't get a chance to soak down into these fibers.

I have found this is the answer. No matter what kind of mud it is.

After washing off as much as I can and brushing it with a vegetable brush, I soak it overnight, put my detergent on it and wash away.

Results?

Mud gone every time.

Dear Heloise:

After buying my husband a small plastic cabinet with little drawers and dividers for storing nails, screws, etc., I realized how handy it would be for sewing needs . . . so now my husband has to get himself another cabinet.

I have buttons in one drawer, pins and needles in another, thread in several of them, etc.

Very easy to see and get to everyhting.

Dear Heloise:

I am a grandmother whose family is always joking about how I save dishwashing by using plastic coated milk cartons and they all want me to write and tell you about it.

I always shake or stir up my pancake batter, mix eggs for scrambling, make gravy thickening and many other things in an empty plastic milk carton, and then just throw the carton away.

When cooking a meal with a canned vegetable, you can also use THAT same empty can for mixing gravy thickening!

Saves washing another dish

I hope they all give you a big hug tonight and I only wish we were all there to share it with you.

Dear Heloise:

For my family of six, I always make a double batch of brownies.

These should be cut while they are still warm.

In order to preserve their freshness and make them a convenience to the family, we wrap them individually in plastic wrap.

I put them in lunch boxes for dessert. For snacks at home, the children will have the wrapper for a crumb-catcher which can then be thrown away.

Mother's happy, too, because there's no mess.

Dear Heloise:

I am a senior citizen, so not quite as active as I used to be, but I do a lot of writing to friends and relatives.

Many of my friends are either shut-ins or not always able to get to the post office as often as I can to buy stamps.

I find by enclosing a self-addressed air mail postcard, I always get a reply.

A regular postcard will do for the friends who are not so far away.

I'll bet your friends love hearing from you . . . I did too.

So keep in touch with us, my dear.

Dear Heloise:

To keep my sewing paraphernalia together, I use the lid of a small plastic foam ice bucket

It is just grand to stick pins and needles into. I keep thread, thimble, buttons, etc., in the little depressions on the lid and all the rest (scissors, etc.) in the bucket part.

Keep things together while I do my handwork and watch television.

Cleared of Charge

In the summer of 1779, Paul Revere took part in the unsuccessful Penobscot expedition. He was accused of being a coward and was removed from his command at Castle William Island but, more than two years later, a court martial cleared him of all charges made against him.

Jacobys Discuss Worst Fault

Jim asks, "What do you think is the most common fault of the average bridge player?"

Oswald: "There is no question in my mind. The average bridge player seems to collapse when defending against a high contract. Here is an example from a recent rubber game, in which I sat West."

Jim: "Your partner showed considerable enterprise in the bidding. He would only have been one down at five hearts but his bid worked out even better. He got South to five spades."

Oswald: "I opened the deuce of hearts. East won with the ace and started to think. I was quite happy while he thought. Obviously he held the ace of diamonds and he was trying to decide if he should lead it or underlead it."

Jim: "That should not have been much of a problem in rubber bridge. He should underlead it and do it quickly. In duplicate he might not want to risk giving declarer an overtrick but in rubber bridge you try to set the declarer."

Oswald: "Very true. Unfortunately for my hopes East finished his cerebration and produced the deuce of trumps. This ended proceedings for the defense. South ran off the rest of the tricks."

Jim: "What did you say?"

Oswald: "When I was your age I probably would have jumped all over him. Thirty years later all I did was to write up the score for the lost rubber and cut for the next one."

Year of Difficulties

Bargains Doubted In Negotiations For New Contracts

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Judging from the early assortment of offerings dropped on the labor-management negotiating tables, nobody is going to walk away with any bargains this year. Everything will carry a price.

What is now taking shape is a year of difficulties, changes tests, opportunities — perhaps even legislation — in the relations between workers and their employers.

Among the powerful undercurrents to any discussions this year — and more major labor agreements expire than in any recent year — are these

— A growing understanding among workers and employers that equality of opportunity for those once discriminated against is not just an idealistic goal but an enforceable law.

— A restlessness among workers with the traditional goal of negotiations, the pay and fringe benefit package. If only for the purpose of getting acquainted with them, new proposals will be introduced this year — a guaranteed annual wage for blue collar workers or a bonus based on profit, for instance.

— A more thorough search of and motives in the social areas. As a U.S. Steel executive pointed out: "Such problems as urban blight, hard-core poverty, functional illiteracy, racial deprivation and mass transit are, in the aggregate, not only completely beyond the economic capability of industry but they are beyond the ken of any bargaining session."

— Discord within the labor movement, specifically between the United Auto Workers and the AFL-CIO.

— The still-inflated costs of the simple needs for survival: food, clothing and shelter. Increases in the cost of living simply wiped out many of labor's gains last year.

— A feeling among some workers that corporate profits are high enough to sustain a large wage increase; a feeling among some management people that the unit costs of labor are too high.

— The absence of specific guideposts such as existed, although in crumbling form, last year and for several years previously. These tended to limit wage and price increases.

— A tendency among some union members to reject labor agreements proposed by their leaders, an attitude described by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz as "very, very dangerous for collective bargaining."

— An economy that declines to give any broad hints of its next directions: expansion or contraction. This permits management to be dour, labor hopeful. It depends on which signals you respond to.

— A consistently low unemployment rate, generally under 4 per cent, but with big variations that have not been countered successfully; that is, much higher unemployment among Negroes and the unskilled than among skilled and whites.

— The problem of cutbacks, layoffs, plant shutdowns in certain industries that might experience a slowing of growth this year or which might have to work off excess inventories.

These are some of the factors involved in this year's negotiations for 3.1 million workers whose contracts expire. Strikes could result. And strikes might lead to pressure for legislation to handle them in the public interest.

ROSENDALE BOOK DROP—For the convenience of patrons, and to encourage return of books at times when the library is closed, the Rosendale Library has installed a book drop at the entrance to the building. The library has also announced a "forgiveness" period from Wednesday, March 15 through April 1. Borrowers who have books long overdue may return them during this time, making use of the new book drop. Mrs. Arthur Mulligan and Mrs. Elsie Ingram, with representatives from Mid-Hudson Libraries, are in the process of re-arranging bookshelves, and with the assistance of volunteers, completing cards for the catalog file. Everything possible is being done to improve facilities and arrangements. Shown, demonstrating use of the book drop are, in the usual order, George Mollenhauer, Mrs. Ingram, Ernest Hopper, Mrs. Anna M. Auchmoody, librarian and Mrs. Mulligan. (Freeman photo by Wagenfohr)

'Winchester 73' Could Cop Most Violent Award

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Winchester 73" probably was a pretty good Western movie when it was made originally in 1950. The remake, seen Tuesday night as one of NBC's made-for-TV features, may be a frontrunner for the award as the most violent show of the season. It was a long, drawn-out bore that leaned on every cliche in the Western book.

As Many Wounded

By the time nasty, mean Dakin McAdam died like the dirty dog he was, this viewer counted six dead from bullet wounds and one by being run over by a carriage wheel. At least an equal number were wounded.

The story line was ingenious enough, but too often it was lost in the welter of fights, shootouts and frantic running around that helped fill the time between the commercials. Two brothers, both good guys wearing white hats, and their cousin, the bad guy in the black hat, all were enamored of a particularly fine repeating rifle. The good guy won the rifle in a shooting contest—the only time in the show they were not shooting at human targets. The bad guy shot his own uncle to steal the weapon.

The rifle then got into the hands of a card sharp. He in turn was killed by a crazy Indian who was having a ball shooting at Mexican peasants until the good guy came along and knocked off the bad Comanche.

Battle in Church

The peasants took the gun to their little village church just in time to interfere with the bad guy's plot to rob it of its sacraments. It wound up with a long, long gun battle among the church pews.

For reasons not quite clear, NBC decided Tuesday night to throw together one of its instant news specials based on the testimony of one witness at the preliminary hearing of conspiracy charges against Clay Shaw of New Orleans in the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Since there was little new film to be shown, the program consisted primarily of a resume of Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's inquiry. There was also a replay of a telvision interview made three weeks ago with the witness, Perry Raymond Russo, which differed from his testimony in court.

Anchorman Frank McGee took special pains to caution the audience that the hearing was to determine neither guilt nor innocence, but merely to determine whether there was enough evidence to warrant a trial. The program seemed premature.

Plans Expanded For Orange Fair

The 1967 Orange County Fair will not be a "run-of-the-mill" fair. Of course, the basic ingredients essential for any fair will be present—carnival, grandstand attractions, and exhibits — but, this year's fair will be gigantic in scope, benefiting Middletown and Orange County.

In the past year, the Orange County Fair has spent more than $300,000 for expansion and improvement, utilizing local labor and locally purchased supplies and materials, thereby channeling this vast sum into the local economy. As a result of this expansion program, the Orange County Fair has quadrupled in size. The parking area alone comprises 45-acres, and will provide free parking for the more than half-a-million people expected to visit the 1967 fair during its expanded 10-day run.

The original purpose of the fair is to promote neighborly competition and improve relationships between local people.

This the Fair accomplishes with over four-thousand exhibits in its many departments, with cash awards amounting to over $16,000.

The Orange County Fair affords the best possible means to "show-off" Orange County as a good place to live, work and build. Industrial and commercial displays will attract thousands of viewers. The fair provides an excellent showplace for cities, towns and villages to erect displays to attract new industry and new residents, or to promote themselves as resort areas. Therefore, the Fair provides good public relations for the local area, inspiring many people to move into the County, bringing better real estate values, more tax revenue, and more consumer dollars for the local trading area. In addition, the Fair provides temporary employment for hundreds of local people, again adding to the local economy.

The 1967 Fair Horse Show is destined to rank among the best shows in the country. More than $100,000 has been spent to improve facilities, and hire nationally prominent officials. With National recognition, the horse show is expected to attract more than 600 horses to be entered in competition in 1967.

Through the efforts of Congressman John G. Dow, the fair will also feature a great many Federal exhibits, never before displayed in this area.

In addition, Democratic Day, Friday, July 28, and Republican Festival Day, Sunday, August 6, are expected to attract many high-ranking government officials to the local area.

Wants Separation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Maritime Administration should be an independent agency, Rep. Daniel E. Button, R-N.Y., said today.

He introduced a bill to remove the administration from under the jurisdiction of the Commerce Department.

Button said the Maritime Administration would be subject to closer scrutiny by Congress if it were separate.

He said the nation faced a major crisis on the high seas, having dropped to 12th place as a maritime power.

An independent, Federal Maritime Administration would be able to promote the U.S. merchant marine freely, Button said

Added to Staff Of Scout Council

The appointment of Robert N. Bechmann, a native of Fredonia, to the executive staff of Rip Van Winkle Council, Inc., Boy Scouts of America, a member agencq of the Ulster County Community Chest, was announced today by Council President Oliver A. Tweedy.

Tweedy said that the Council now has three district scout executives, each of whom is assigned to work, under the direction of the council scout executive, with one of the three districts which comprise the Rip Van Winkle Council area. President Tweedy noted that the addition of a third field executive fulfills a key objective of the council's "Long Range Plan" which was adopted by the Council Executive Board in 1963.

ROBERT N. BECHMANN

Note Drive Success

President Tweedy emphasized that the success of the 1966 Ulster County Community Chest Drive, which resulted in a substantial increase in the Council's Chest allotment, helped materially to make possible the employment of Bechmann who will serve as district scout executive of Onteora Trail District. The latter district encompasses the greater Kingston area and includes the towns of Esopus, Hurley, Woodstock, Olive and Shandaken.

More effective field service to local sponsoring institutions and scout units, stronger district operation and an increase in boy membership and adult leadership, are some of the major benefits anticipated as a direct result of this staff realignment according to Tweedy.

Bechmann is a graduate of Freedonia Central High School and received his BA Degree from Salem College, Salem, W. Va., in 1965. He is a member of the American Humanics Foundation.

Prior to his joining the professional staff of the council, Bechmann served as an assistant district scout executive with the Hudson-Delaware Council, BSA, Middletown. He is a graduate of the 273rd National Training School for Scout Executives conducted at the Schiff Scout Reservation, Medham, N. J.

15 Years Experience

The newest member of the Rip Van Winkle Council executive staff has a background of 15 years experience in the Scouting program, including seven years as a camp staff member. As a Scout, Bechmann attained the rank of Eagle Scout. Bechmann who is now residing in Kingston, assumed his new position as district scout executive on March 1.

The present membership of the Rip Van Winkle Council, BSA executive staff includes Alex K. MacDonald, Hurley, council scout executive; John Helmer, Rosendale, district scout executive, Minnewaska Trail District; John Vliet, Catskill, district scout executive, Mohican Trail District and Bechmann.

Agree on Draft Of Rules for April 4 Parley

NEW YORK (AP) — Democratic and Republican leaders have disclosed agreement on a set of 19 draft rules for the State Constitutional Convention opening in Albany April 4.

The rules will be submitted to Democratic convention delegates Thursday and to Republican delegates next Wednesday.

The draft rules, it was revealed Tuesday, provide for a system of 15 committees in an effort to achieve a simplified constitution. The rules also contain a timetable calling for final reports by the 12 substantive committees not later than Aug. 14. This limit may be extended, however.

William J. Vanden Heuvel, chairman of the temporary rules committee for the 99 Democratic delegates, said here that the agreement thus far means "we are more prepared for this convention than any prior convention in the history of New York State."

Perry B. Duryea Jr., Assembly minority leader, said in Albany, for the Republicans that he and Earl W. Brydges, Senate majority leader, were "very much encouraged."

Duryea said the action "bodes well for the rapid start of the convention."

The Republicans have 84 delegates, including one Conservative party member.

The Liberal party has three delegates.

Dempsey Child, Poor

Six month-old Edward Dempsey, of RD 2, Saugerties, who was injured Sunday night in a traffic accident on Blue Mt. Road north of Route 212, Saugerties, was reported in poor condition today at Benedictine Hospital. The boy was riding in a car operated by Edward Reynolds, 33, of Long Beach, when the vehicle failed to negotiate a curve, struck and sheered off a utility pole. The child suffered a skull fracture and other injuries.

State Police cited Reynolds on charges of leaving the scene of an accident, driving while his license was revoked and operating a car at a speed not reasonable and prudent.

Police Kept Busy

Report Library Painting Slashed

Local police made five overnight arrests, recovered a stolen car, and were notified of apparent vandalism at the Kingston City Library involving a Vanderlyn painting.

Arthur C. Swanson, 38, of Box 75, Eddyville, was booked for third degree assault shortly after midnight and was cited for speeding and a traffic light violation.

James Sorci, 17, of West Union Street, and Robert Coddington, 18, of Hunter Street, were charged with disorderly conduct after reported misbehavior downtown, and Elizabeth Prosser, 24, who police said has no home, was booked for loitering in the lobby of the Trailways bus terminal. The other arrest was on a traffic charge after a Broadway mishap, involved Dennis Landerway, 23, of Tompkins Street.

A report at 7:30 p. m. noted that a car owned by the Hertz Corp., of White Plains, which had been parked at the rear of the Kingston City Library, had been stolen. The report was by Louis Gruberg, of 123 South Manor Avenue, and another report only minutes later, noted that the car had been located by Officers George Barringer and Howard Kelly in the parking lot of the MJM School near Mary's Avenue

An earlier report by Chester A. Baltz, president of the Kingston City Library Board, noted that a John Vanderlyn painting at the library had been slashed. He thought it possible that the damage was done during a recent burglary at the library and only recently noticed.

In city court today, Swanson was fined $30 on the charge of speeding, $20 on the red light charge, and was given a suspended sentence of 30 days in jail on the assault charge which was lodged by Judy Gregory, of North Front Street.

Scorci and Coddington were given suspended jail sentences of 60 days each plus probation for one year with other conditions imposed. Hearing of Elizabeth Prosser was put over to Friday, bail was fixed at $150 and was not posted.

A charge involving the unemployment insurance law lodged recently against Alfred Mansolillo, 56, of 70 Beachwood Avenue, Poughkeepsie, was withdrawn.

Lauds Jackson On Anniversary

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — President Johnson, marking the 200th birthday of Andrew Jackson in an area where states rights often has been a political issue, lauded Jackson today for believing "the national government represented the people, not the states."

In an address prepared for delivery at Jackson's home — the Hermitage — Johnson said this belief of the seventh president "triumphed in his time."

But he said "the torch of union" which Jackson lit sputtered out under later presidents. Otherwise, he said, "we might well have avoided the holocaust of Civil War."

Johnson, making an early morning flight here from Washington, scheduled three formal speeches in Tennessee — his first outside Washington since his Asian tour last fall.

Some regional leaders of the Democratic party have been urging the chief executive to undertake more speech-making trips around the country.

In Tennessee, the President joined his touring wife to appear at the Hermitage, address a joint session of the Tennessee Legislature on Vietnam and help dedicate a new community college at Columbia, 50 miles from Nashville.

In his Hermitage text, Johnson said that Jackson "began an era of competitive political activity, based on the ideal of the citizen as a full participant in the life of the community."

This task remains unfinished, he said.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Found only in the southwest Pacific island of New Caledonia, the cagou, like many birds throughout the world, is in danger of becoming extinct. A member of the crane family, the cagou has an orange beak, white feathers, short wings and is about the size of a chicken. Like the kiwi of New Zealand, it cannot fly. According to The World Almanac, there are only about 20 cagous in New Caledonia, where thousands once lived.

Capitol Mystery

Find Tombstone From Yesteryear In Clerk's Closet

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives has found a tombstone in its closet.

The new House clerk, W. Pat Jennings Jr., discovered it while cleaning a utility closet.

The tombstone bears the inscription "Stephen C. Deaver, Maryland, Sgt. Coast Artillery, June 20, 1938." Veteran House aides say it probably had been in the closet for more than 20 years.

Nobody Is Sure

Nobody is quite sure how the 1-foot by 4-foot 240-pound marble slab got there.

Nobody is quite sure what to do with it.

The tombstone spent Tuesday afternoon on a Persian carpet outside the office of assistant Democratic leader Hale Boggs of Louisiana. Jennings said later it will be stored in hopes someone will claim it.

A veteran worker on the clerk's staff said he thought the stone arrived while South Trimble was House clerk, and that Trimble put it in the closet. Trimble's last term as clerk ended in January 1947.

The tombstone's wooden crate bears a label addressed to "Congress U. S. Washington, D.C." and marked "Senate-House Souvenir." It came prepaid. A shipping tag carries the notation: "Could not locate anyone who knows about this."

Has Return Address

The return address on the crate is "Mrs. Deaver, 4427 Dryades St., New Orleans, La." Someone else lives there now.

Stenciled on the side of the crate is the address: Mr. R. Alfortish, Sexton, Lafayette Cemetery 2, Washington Ave., Saratoga St. and Loyola Ave., New Orleans, La.

Robert H. Alfortish, now sexton at Holy Name of Mary Cemetery in Algiers, La., across the Mississippi from New Orleans, says he left the Lafayette Cemetery in 1949 but does not recall the Deaver tombstone.

Jennings sent it to Boggs because the Lafayette Cemetery is in Boggs' congressional district.

Everyone concerned seemed a bit embarrased about the tombstone and eager to get rid of it. It was almost as if someone had found a skeleton in the closet.

Ellenville

OES Schedules Meeting Monday

ELLENVILLE — On Monday, March 20 at 8 p. m., the Wawarsing Chapter 253, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold its regular meeting in the Masonic Building, Canal Street, ground floor.

Following the meeting an Easter hat parade will take place during the social hour.

Master Masons are invited to attend.

At the last meeting a St. Patrick's Day table was decorated by Associate Matron Harriette Bowler for serving refreshments.

The Worthy Matron Dorothy Billquist is planning a bazaar later in the year.

The date for the official visit of the District Deputy Grand Matron, Christine Wilson, and District Deputy Grand Lecturer Earl Eck has been changed from June to Sept. 18, at which time it is hoped, the meeting can be held in the new Masonic Temple which is now under construction on the site of the former Dwight Divine property at 14 Canal Street, Ellenville.

Rehearsal for officers will be held Thursday, 8 p. m.

Mansfield in Viet

Airman Second Class Walter Mansfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mansfield, Briggs Highway, Ellenville, is now in Vietnam in the fight against Communist aggression. Airman Mansfield, a jet aircraft mechanic, is a member of the Pacific Air Forces which provides offensive-defensive airpower for the U. S. and its allies in the Pacific, Far East and Southeast Asia. Before his arrival in Southeast Asia, he was assigned to the 52nd Field Maintenance Squadron at Suffolk County AFB. The airman is a 1964 graduate of Ellenville Central High School.

Will Head N.Y. Job Development On State Growth

RICHARD G. KIMMERER

ALLBANY — A retired Canajoharie bank president, Richard G. Kimmerer, has been appointed executive director of the New York Job Development Authority, effective March 1, State Commerce Commissioner Ronald B. Peterson, Chairman of the Authority's Board of Directors, has announced.

Kimmerer succeeds Alfred C. Haven of McKownville. The post has an annual salary of $26,750.

Formed in 1962

The New York Job Development Authority was organized in 1962 to assist industrial growth in New York State. It serves as a supplementary financing source to conventional lending organizations such as banks and insurance companies. The Authority can provide up to 30 per cent of the cost of land and buildings for the construction, expansion or rehabilitation of industrial plants through low interest, second mortgage loans. Its loans are made through local nonprofit industrial development corporations.

To date, JDA has granted or approved 268 loans totaling more than $35 million for industrial expansion projects throughout the state. These loans are expected to create more than 11,300 new jobs and save more than 5,200 others.

Born in Canajoharie, Kimmerer operated a large printing plant in that community. He started a banking career as a director of the National Spraker Bank in Canajoharie and 12 years later was elected president at the age of 46. He continued in that position until his retirement in 1964. Under Kimmerer's direction, the bank extended its services to five offices in Central New York and increased its assets to over $30 million.

Kimmerer participated in many Canajoharie community activities. He was a member of the Board of Education; vice chairman of the Red Cross; trustee and former president of the Arkell Hall Foundation, and former chairman of Group 5, New York State Bankers' Association, and a member of its Council of Administration. He was honored by being named a member of the Bank Management Commission of the American Bankers' Association.

Kimmerer served on the Regional Loan Committee of the New York Business Development Corporation from 1956-1958 and again from 1961-1963. He was elected to the corporation's board of directors in 1960 and 1961.

In 1960, Kimmerer was named to the State Board of Social Welfare by Governor Rockefeller and was reappointed in 1966.

Resides in Menands

He is a member of Hamilton Lodge of Masons, Ziyra Temple Shrine of Utica, and the Fort Orange Club of Albany. Mr. and Mrs. Kimmerer are members of the First Church of Albany. They have a son, Richard, who is manager of the Guilderland office of the National Commercial Bank and Trust Company of Albany. They reside at 2 River Hill Apartments, Menands, a suburb of Albany.

Haven, who served with the New York Telephone Company for 41 years prior to his service with JDA—at his retirement, he was general disbursement accounting manager for Upstate New York—is expected to remain active in business, but has not yet announced his plans. He served nearly three years as comptroller-treasurer of JDA before his appointment as executive director Jan. 1, 1965.

One New York town bears the name Bohemia; another is called Mexico.

Lindsay to Make One Last Pitch For Extra Aid

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Mayor John V. Lindsay planned a last-ditch appeal to legislative leaders today for more state aid for New York City.

Lindsay, who estimates he will be $400 million short in balancing his 1967-68 budget, which reportedly will approach $5 billion, asked to meet with the lawmakers personally to outline his budget needs.

The Republican mayor was hoping the Legislature and Gov. Rockefeller would approve four additional lotteries, with revenues to be returned to the localities where tickets were sold. Lindsay says he could obtain $20 million from the four lotteries, which would be added to the four already contemplated for state educational purposes.

The mayor also reportedly was annoyed by the Legislature's approval of several bills that would improve pension benefits for public employes. Each bill, a Lindsay aide said, entails a relatively small cost to the city but, in total, the measures could cost New York up to $10 million a year.

The pension bills affect teachers, police, firemen, sanitation officers and other public employees who have avoided the necessity of obtaining "home rule" messages by obtaining amendments to the state retirement laws rather than New York City's administrative code.

Smog Cutter Device

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State Health Department has approved for sale a device to cut in combustion engines the emission of nitrogen oxide, the eye - stinging and yellow-coloring ingredients of smog.

The state agency announced Tuesday that it had approved the device, manufactured by the Aurora Plastics Corp. of West Hempstead, L.I.

The device, called a crankcase emission control system, can be adapted to all automobile engines, the firm said.

Basically, the device cuts down on the formation of nitrogen oxide because the crankcase is completely enclosed and utilizes a non-sticking valve.

Women Getting Re-tired

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Women, seldom seen around tire racks a few years ago, now buy 15 per cent of the 100-million-plus replacement tires sold annully in the United States, says The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company.

Nobuko Imai Impresses Kingston Audience; Young Violist Appears With Philharmonic

BY DOROTHY A. NAREL
Women's Editor

(Tuesday, March 14)—A 24-year old Japanese violist, winner of the Friends' First Annual Young Artists Competition last May, took repeated bows before an audience of music lovers last night in the Community Theatre. Nobuko Imai, native of Tokyo, Japan, played the "Concerto For Viola and Orchestra," by Bela Bartok, with the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Orchestra under the baton of Claude Monteux.

Without a doubt, this was the highlight of the Philharmonic evening.

Miss Imai, a student of Walter Trampler at the Juilliard School of Music in New York, is a Fulbright Scholar and was concertmaster and principal violist of the Toho String Orchestra in 1964.

In last night's performance, Miss Imai demonstrated superb technical values. A master of the viola, she was fully acquainted with all the intricasies of the Bartok work and skillfully reduced each difficult passage to performing ease

She played with an interesting and vital manner impressing the audience at all times with her outstanding talent.

Bela Bartok's work is passionate and virile. It is full of sharp and incisive sounds interspersed with melodic subjects that sound barbaric at times but the composer was intensely modern in his use of tonality and harmony. As the soloist in this demanding work, Miss Imai gracefully hurdled over curious rhythms and filled profound melancholy passages with deep feeling. She held her audience right to the wonderful sudden surprise ending.

The concert opened with the "Symphony in D Major," a work by Karl Philipp Emanuel Bach, second son of Johann Sebastian and Maria Barbara Bach. Here, Moteux managed the various instruments skillfully developing perception and effectiveness. Last night's selection is one of 18 symphonies composed by K. P. E. Bach. Much of it has charm and grace and is pleasing to listen to even if it lacks depth or intensity. It is interesting to note, however, that during the 18th century, K. P. E. Bach's fame was so much greater than his fathers that to the music world of Western Europe the name Bach denoted Karl Philipp Emanuel — just as, in England, it meant his younger brother Johann Christian, the "London" Bach.

The program concluded with "Symphony No. 2 in D Major" by Brahms. Though Brahms is one of the last of the great Romanticists, he is essentially a classical composer. He was the son of a great era: Chopin, Schumann, Liszt and Wagner were formulating new music. But Brahms, tempermentally, belonged an an earlier period. He was of the age of the later Beethoven and he aspired to carry the art of music from the point where Beethoven left off.

There is little doubt that Monteux took great pains in preparing this magnificent work. The comfortably swinging first movement creates a sense of well being with its sincere and sensuous gladness. It outshines the other three sections but Monteux unified the entire orchestra in a coherent whole, broad and satisfying finale.

Members of the press, board of directors, and orchestra personnel met after the concert in the mezzanine of the theatre for a reception. A new idea, members of the board felt such a move would provide a "feeling of completeness" to the Philharmonic evening. It afforded an opportunity to discuss the evening's performance with the conductor and guest artist.

Judging by last night's comments, the reception idea will be continued.

The next Philharmonic concert will be given on Saturday, April 29 at 8:30 p. m. in the Kingston Community Theatre. It was originally scheduled for Monday, May 1. Guest soloist will be Bernard Greenhouse, cellist.

On March 17, 18 and 19, the Young Artists' Competition will be held in Skinner Hall, Vassar College, Poughkeepsie. Final judging will be on March 19 at 3 p. m.

On April 1, the Philharmonic Benefit Ball will be given at 8 p. m. in Champagnat Hall, Marist College, Poughkeepsie.

Geographical locations represented in the group are Georgia, Ohio, Florida, Illinois, Alabama, and Pennsylvania.

A bevy of outstanding soloists are slated to enhance the interest and variety of the program.

Sarah Perkins, a lyric soprano, is a junior and a native of Atlanta. She is majoring in Music and has studied voice with Professor Joseph Cole of the Morris Brown Music Department. Miss Perkins has appeared in many recitals, including performances for the Chautaugua Circle, LINKS Inc. and the Atlanta Urban League.

Betty Malone, soprano, has performed as soloist in her church choir and in her high school choir before coming to Atlanta. Although her major interest has always been music, she is an English major at Morris Brown.

Roslyn Burrough dramatic soprano, is from Jacksonville, Fla. She has won several honors for singing during her high school career. At Morris Brown her voice has been used on works that require extreme ranges and dramatic interpretations.

Ronald William possesses an outstanding tenor voice which he uses with naturalness and ease, and has captured the hearts of many audiences. In high school he was frequently presented in vocal recitals, and now, throughout Atlanta and surrounding cities. Mr. Williams is a sociology major and a junior at Morris Brown, but still plans extensive vocal training with future concert work in mind.

William Edmondson is a voice major and has studied with several well-known voice teachers in Atlanta. He has been featured as soloist in several oratorios and cantatas in and around Atlanta. Free Performance of 'Young Tom Edison' Offered by Junior League This Saturday

"Young Tom Edison," a play for children from the first to the ninth grades will be presented on Saturday, March 18 at 2 p. m. in the Kingston High School auditorium.

It was announced by the Kingston Junior League, local sponsors of this Harnick-Adams production, that admission to this performance would be free to all on a first come, first serve basis. A League spokesman stated she hoped all the children, and their parents, who were disappointed earlier in the year when the performance failed to take place, will be able to attend this free show.

"Young Tom Edison" is a musical play, highly recommended by many educational groups for children. Every character in the play, except one, is based on the people who actually worked with, or influenced Edison's life. Every incident portrayed has been authenticated through extensive research.

The Junior League and Harnick-Adams sincerely wish that as many local children as possible will take advantage of this excellent opportunity to enjoy such fine, worthwhile entertainment.

Minister's Wife Wears Miniskirts

LONDON (AP) — "I think that I can help many young people find God," said the miniskirted young wife of a British Methodist minister.

"I think miniskirts are super," Marjorie Janney continued. "They express the freedom of our age. One can move about in a miniskirt.

"By being modern I feel I can encourage young people to realize that religion does not mean disapproval."

Newspaper pictures of the Rev. Denis Janney's shapely 28-year-old wife in a skirt that ended six inches above her knees brought her a bunch of anonymous critical letters.

"We burned the letters," said Mrs. Janney.

"It's not their business what sort of skirt my wife wears," said her husband, whose parish is in southeast London. "It's this sort of intolerance which keeps many people from going to church. I'm proud of my wife and proud to have her a member of my church."

Mrs. Janney, a red-haired model and the mother of a 7-year-old daughter, says since she started wearing short short skirts she has done two television commercials and has been offered two parts in the movies.

The band of the King's Hussars also named her their pinup.

Mrs. Janney takes an active part in church life. She gives hours each week to a church youth club, speaks regularly to women's organizations and gives fashion and beauty hints to young wives.

She and her husband said the critical letters came from outsiders, not from his parishioners.

"So far as we know," said the minister, "no one in the congregation objects to my wife's skirt. The fact is — our attendance is growing."

MODELS FOR COLEMAN SHOW—Preparing for Harbingers of Spring fashion show to be held at the John A. Coleman Catholic High School Friday are models Brad Lebherz, Teri Murphy, Steve Provenzano, Pat Bailey and Harold Acker. Refreshments will be served 1 p. m. with fashion show and card party to follow. Mrs. Paul Sullivan and Mrs. Walter Gordon are co-chairmen of the event sponsored by the Parents Association of the school. Reservations may be made with Mrs. William Stall or Mrs. William Carr. Builds Storybook Castle in 2 Days For Camelot Set

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A trade paper item a few days ago focused attention on a Latin who coolv delivered when given 48 hours to build a castle.

"Sure, there are problems," says Edward Carrere, "but that's our work."

Carrere, 59, is a naturalized U.S. citizen born in M[illegible] City of a French father and a Spanish mother and married to a Norwegian.

Won Nominations

He is also one of Hollywood's 200 art directors — the men who design the sets. He won Oscar nominations for his sets in "The Adventures of Don Juan," starring the late Errol Flynn; "Sunrise at Campobello," with Ralph Bellamy and Greer Garson, and "Elmer Gantry," Burt Lancaster.

The "Camelot" company, the trade press reported, had moved into the largest interior set ever built at Warner Bros.

Representing legendary King Arthur's great hall, the stage-filling whopper measured 250 by 136 feet and 65 feet high. It has massive walls and columns, a soaring beamed ceiling, two thrones and a vast expanse for the knights' round table.

Costs Half Million

It cost $500,000 and was one of 45 sets designed by Carrere for the $12-million spectacle.

A wiry, compact man surrounded by drawing tables with architectural histories at his elbow, Carrere — pronounced Cara-ir' — admitted he had taken liberties with the design.

"Architecture of the period (500 A.D.) [illegible] rough cut stone and crude, heavy timber, which doesn't lend itself to a musical," he said.

He had softened the wood with carving and incorporated curving Roman roof trusses which, historically, came in later.

Independence Hall Setting for Signing

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Independence Hall, birthplace of both the U.S. and Pennsylvania Constitutions, was the setting today for Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond Shafer's scheduled signing of the constitutional convention bill.

Shafer said he chose the historic structure as the signing site "to dramatize the fact that the freedom of the people of Pennsylvania is at stake in the question of a constitutional convention."

The controversial bill, which cleared the legislature last week will have the voters decide in the May 16 primary election if a convention should sit in Harrisburg this winter to rewrite four articles of the state constitution.

The convention's recommendations for changes in the 93-year-old charter would go before the voters in next year's primary election.

Festival of Arts At Local Church; Draws 200 People

Two hundred people attended the Festival of Arts and Crafts at the St. James Methodist Church held last weekend. Members of the congregation displayed creative talent in areas of woodcarving, metal work, woodcraft, unique flower arranging, both artificial and real, textile painting, ribbon flowers, painting, knitting, quilting, crochet and embroidery.

The Rev. C. Pershing Hunter, pastor, had encouraged the membership and all people to keep themselves busy with creative activity as a stimulate to health of body and mind, and as a means of knowing one another better as we share interests and hobbies. The youngest participating was Geoffrey Seeger, 13, and the oldest was Percival Schoonmaker, who is beyond four score years. He displayed three pictures in still life. Mrs. Frank Johnson displayed a family table on which three generations of sewing was shown. A patchwork quilt that Mrs. Howard Winne had made included over 2500 pieces. It was a log cabin design made of Skinner satin. Mrs. C. P. Hunter had a table of Christmas arts and crafts, together with delarobia and artificial flower arrangements. Others sharing in the display included Mrs. George Berry, Silvero Davis, Mrs. Brian Finger, Mrs. Robert Hudler, Mrs. Kenneth Pearson, Mrs. Percy Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tarsia, Mrs. Austin White, John White, Mrs. William Willt and Kenneth Warren. The Fred Seeger family, Fred Shirley, Goffrey and Fred Jr. each had articles for display.

Spartan Pools Defeat Royal Grill to Sweep Y Playoff

SKATING CHAMPION: Beatriz (Bebe) Wrigg, 12, of Great Neck, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wrigg of Kingston was silver medalist (second place) winners in the 45th annual Middle Atlantic Figure Skating Championships at Madison Square Garden.

A seventh grader in the Great Neck Public school system, Bebe was the youngest contestant in the Novice Ladies division and missed the first place trophy by one-tenth of a point.

Since first entering competition in the 1964-65 season, Bebe has been a medalist winner five times, having won or placed in as many competitions. She is being trained for competitive skating by Vera Cross, former English champion, and represents the Rye Skating Club in competition.

Uhl Scores 42 Points

An inspired Royal Grill quintet gave undefeated Spartan Pools their toughest battle of the season in the finals of the YMCA Basketball League playoffs Tuesday night.

But in the end it was an old, familiar theme. Spartans won 123-107 to sweep the regular season and playoffs and extend their unbeaten streak to 22 games.

Ferroxcube nipped Jack's Barber Shop 69-68 to take third place.

Uhl Scores 42

For once the opposition had a player who could match Jumpin' Joe Uhl, who garnered 42 points. Frank Passante rimmed 40 for the Royals but Uhl had a slightly better supporting cast.

Five of the six players hit in double figures as Spartans grabbed a 25-15 first period lead and were in command all the way. But they were never able to turn the game into a rout as they had so many times in the past.

After a 59-42 deficit in the first half, Royals had enough staying power to outscore the Spartans 65-64 after recess. And that never happened before.

Harry Pratt potted 24 and Chick Boice 20 for Spartans. The only player not in double figures was Joe Klonowski who exited early with an injury. Tom Fiore was runnerup for Royals with 26.

Potter Makes 36

Dan Potter fired 36 in a losing cause for Jack's who slipped after leading 32-30 at halftime. Harry Bubnack dunked 23 and Jack Barbanti 20 for Ferroxcube.

Spartan Aces Are Top Choices

Smith, Webster Two Others Go In First Round

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Kill, Bubba, Kill," a football war chant that thundered down from the stands at Michigan State games could become almost as popular in Baltimore as "Maryland, My Maryland."

Charles (Bubba) Smith, a mammoth defensive end and college Lineman of the Year in 1966, was selected Tuesday by the Baltimore Colts as the initial pick of the first combined draft of the National and American football leagues.

Three of Smith's Michigan State teammates also were chosen in the first round — All-America halfback Clint Jones, by Minnesota; All-America linebacker George Webster, by Houston, and flanker Gene Washington, by Minnesota.

In all, 133 players were picked in the first five of 17 rounds. The five rounds took 11 hours and 44 minutes to complete. The draft was to continue today.

But the pros weren't so busy going after college talent Tuesday that they didn't have time to make some trades.

Make Five Deals

Five deals were made involving such veterans as backs Bill Triplett, Earl Gros, Tommy Mason, Tom Flores and Daryle Lamonica, ends Art Powell, Marlin McKeever, Hal Bedsole, Glenn Bass and Gary Ballman and flanker Bernie Casey.

Two of last year's top college quarterbacks, Florida's Steve Spurrier and Purdue's Bob Griese, halfback Mel Farr of UCLA, defensive end Loyd Phillips of Arkansas and Notre Dame guard Tom Regner also were picked in the first round.

Spurrier, the Heisman Trophy winner, was taken by San Francisco. The 49ers selected third, having obtained Atlanta's pick in a trade. Late in the first round they chose Casimir Banaszek, a tight end-lineback from Northwestern.

Griese To Miami

Griese was taken fourth by Miami; Phillips, Arkansas's only two-time All-America by Chicago, and Regner, also an All-America, by Houston who had obtained Dallas's pick. Houston took Webster as its own choice.

Farr was selected by Detroit, giving the Lions both 1966 All-America halfbacks. They already have signed Notre Dame's Nick Eddy, whom they drafted as a future in 1965. By agreement of both leagues, there no longer is a future, or redshirt, draft.

New Orleans, the newest NFL franchise, was supposed to pick first but traded the choice (Bubba Smith) to the Colts for Gary Cuozzo. The Saints got their first player — halfback Les Kelley of Alabama — on the 26th and last pick of the first round.

Packers Pick Ninth

World champion Green Bay was the ninth team to select as a result of a trade with Pittsburgh, and the Packers took defensive guard Bob Hyland of Boston College. On their regular turn in the first round, which was 25th, they chose quarterback Don Horn of San Diego State.

Minnesota got the most first round picks, three. Besides picking Clint Jones in the second spot, obtained from the New York Giants as part of a trade, and Washington in their assigned eight spot, the Vikings also took defensive Alan Page of Notre Dame in the 15th spot because of a trade with Los Angeles.

Trades kept the Giants from getting a selection until the fourth round when they took defensive tackle Lou Thompson of Alabama.

Baltimore's passing up of Spurrier and Griese surprised some observers in light of the fact the Colts traded Cuozzo, who was backup man for the great Johnny Unitas.

But it is known that the Colts think highly of Jim Ward, a strong-armed youngster from Gettysburg who was on their taxi squad last season. The Colts also need defensive linemen, and the 6-foot-7, 283-pound Smith has the credentials.

San Francisco's choice of Spurrier also raised some eyebrows since the 49ers have John Brodie and George Mira. But the acquisition of the Florida star cretainly won't hurt the 49ers should they go into the trading market.

The five trades Tuesday:

—In the only AFL deal Buffalo traded quarterback Lamonica, Bass and their third and fifth choices of the current draft to Oakland for Powell and quarterback Flores. Oakland drafted linebacker Bill Fairband of Colorado University and Stanford linebacker Mike Hibler.

—Los Angeles traded McKeever and its current No. 1 draft pick (Page) to Minnesota for Mason, Bedsole and a No. 2 choice, Willie Ellison, Texas Southern back.

—San Francisco traded flanker Casey, guard Jim Wilson and end Jim Norton to Atlanta for a first round draft choice (Spurrier).

—New York Giants traded linebacker Jerry Hillebrand to St. Louis for Triplett.

—Pittsburgh traded Ballman to Philadelphia for Gros, guard Bruce Van Dyke and a third round selection, center Rockne Freitas of Oregon State.

Ace Who Failed

Walker's Shot That Missed

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The ball floated gracefully toward the yawning basket at Madison Square Garden, and an era ended the way it began three years ago — with Jimmy Walker shooting the works.

But Walker's last shot didn't go in, and Providence's superb scorer-playmaker bowed out a loser — while Marquette's Warriors captured another prize in the National Invitation Tournament.

Marquette nipped the Friars 81-80 Tuesday night in a wild overtime finish when Walker's desperate 30-footer caromed off the back rim as the clock ran out. The setback ended Providence's bid for a third NIT title and closed out All-America Walker's fabulous college career.

The Warriors, however, moved into the semifinals of the 30-year-old classic along with Rutgers' surprising Scarlet Knights, who outscrapped New Mexico 65-60 in the Garden opener. Marquette takes on free-wheeling Marshall, W. Va., and Rutgers meets Southern Illinois' poised Salukis in Thursday night's semis.

"That shot was my first unsuccessful moment in New York," said Walker, whose 36-point effort against Marquette matched his scoring average in seven previous Garden appearances. Walker has earned the MVP award in two straight Holiday Festival tournaments here and recently was named the outstanding visiting collegian to appear in the Garden during the 1966-67 season.

Scores 2,045 Points

The 6-foot-3 backcourt ace, who scored 37 points in the Friars' first-round NIT victory over Memphis State, finished with a three-year total of 2,045. He leads this season's national scoring parade with a 30.4 average.

Walker, who played the last 16 minutes with four fouls, missed the climactic shot after his basket, another by sophomore Skip Hayes and three Marquette errors dissipated the Warriors' 81-76 lead in the final 52 seconds.

The Warriors lost the ball on a backcourt violation and an errant pass before another violation — on a jump ball — gave Providence the ball with four seconds remaining. Walker took the pass-in at midcourt, broke toward the basket and let fly with one second showing on the clock. The ball hit the rim and the buzzer preserved Marquette's 20th victory in 28 starts.

In the opener, Rutgers' Bob Lloyd scored 14 of his game-high 23 points in the second half and the Scarlet Knights, now 21-6, held the taller Lobos to their low score of the season.

Lloyd teamed with 6-6 Bob Greacen and little Jim Valvano in a 12-3 burst early in the second half that shot Rutgers in front by 14 points, and the Knights weathered New Mexico's full-court press down the stretch.

Hitters, Pitchers Excel

Fielders Slumping In Spring Training

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's difficult to tell whether the hitters are ahead of the pitchers, or the pitchers are ahead of the hitters at this stage of baseball's spring training session.

But one thing's certain—both are ahead of the fielders.

A total of 30 errors were committed in nine exhibition games Tuesday, with Houston and St. Louis each making six and San Francisco and Detroit each with four.

For the hitters, Tim Cullen of Washington, Billy Williams of the Chicago Cubs and Jackie Warner of the California Angels were outstanding. Cullen and Williams each had a grand slam homer while Warner drove in five runs with a homer, double and single.

For the pitchers, Dean Chance, Jim Perry and Jim Grant took the honors, combining for a two-hit shutout of the New York Mets, 1-0, at Orlando, Fla.

In the other Florida games, Cincinnati whipped St. Louis 12-9 at St. Petersburg, the Chicago White Sox nipped Boston 5-4 at Sarasota, Los Angeles bombed Detroit 8-2 at Lakeland, the New York Yankees beat Atlanta 5-0 at West Palm Beach, Washington stopped Kansas City 8-4 at Pompano Beach, and Philadelphia topped Houston 7-4 at Clearwater.

In Arizona, the Chicago Cubs got by San Francisco 5-4 at Scottsdale and California took Cleveland 7-2 at Tucson.

Williams' grand slam and the four Giant errors, responsible for four unearned Cub runs, were enough to bring Chicago its third straight victory. Jesus Alou homered for the Giants.

Warner's hitting heroics sparked the Angels to their victory over Cleveland. His three-run homer highlighted a four-run first inning. Willie Smith's pinch homer accounted for both Indian runs.

Cullen's grand slam and a solo shot by Ken Harrelson were all the runs the Senators needed to send the Athletics to their fifth straight loss.

Perry struck out five and walked one in three hitless innings for the Twins against the Mets. Perry allowed an infield single and Grant gave up one hit, also in three inning stints.

The Yankees scored four runs on only two hits in the fourth inning and sent Atlanta to its first loss of the season. The runs came on a walk to Mickey Mantle, a hit batsman, a ground out, a wild pitch, a single by Joe Pepitone and a double by Elston Howard.

The Phillies capitalized on Houston's six errors and walked off with their first victory of the season. Gary Sutherland drove in three Philadelphia runs, including one in a decisive three-run eighth inning.

Errors were a major factor in the Cincinnati victory over St. Louis, with the Reds getting seven unearned runs. Card shortstop Jerry Buchek made three errors, third baseman Mike Shannon two and second baseman Phil Gagliano one. Cincinnati's Leo Cardenas had four hits, including a homer, and drove in four runs.

Tommy McGraw tripled home the winning run in the ninth, capping a three-run rally for the White Sox against Boston. Tony Conigliaro and Rico Petrocelli had homers for the Red Sox.

Ron Fairly's three-run homer triggered the Dodgers to their decision over Detroit. Bob Bailey had two singles and two stolen bases for the winners.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Freeman Sports Editor

A communication from a group of youngsters associated with the Kingston High school ski team is worthy of comment.

It is a remarkable tribute from the young Maroons to a faculty advisor in skiing—Richard D. Schaefer of Woodstock, an English teacher.

"There are many unsung heroes in the hallowed halls of any school," the letter says. "Kingston High school has its share of them, too."

A non-skier, Schaefer volunteered to be the advisor to the almost defunct Kingston High School ski team. In his words, he found a new friend but the overwhelming reaction of his charges must be a source of great comfort to him.

The letter notes that within its ranks, the KHS ski club had several capable young skiers. In his own way, Schaefer realized not only their potentials but the credit they could bring to the school.

• Unselfish Efforts:

"It has been through his untiring and unselfish efforts that the Kingston High School team was organized." the letter continues. "The team included both boys and girls.

"It wasn't easy for a man teaching all week, writing a novel, with a wife and four children, to devote his spare moments to make a day of pleasure in skiing for 250 students—which he has done on countless Saturdays.

The letter emphasizes that few persons outside ski circles are aware of Schaefer's great contribution to the KHS sports scene.

"Those who have joined him and worked with him, including persons affiliated with skiing and racing in and around the area, have the highest respect for his gentlemanly attitude, his willingness to surmount emotional odds and to his devotion to the ski program."

"Time and again," it goes on, "he has been seen trudging up snow and ice laden slopes, chilling his feet and hands, communicating with a 2-way radio, executing a racing rule, cheering for all teams (even when it hurt), encouraging a fallen racer or a DNF, sympathizing with a DSQ. . ."

• Battle of Recognition:

There is a sidelight to all this of course and it's the mounting clamor for recognition of skiing as a varsity sport at Kingston High. It is now operated on a sort of "unofficial" basis, although Section 9 titles are duly credited to Kingston and the school accepts the trophies symbolic thereof.

The proponents of varsity skiing are armed with another strong argument. Many schools in the area have given varsity status to members of the boys team.

It seems that the New York State Public High School Athletic Association, one of the most backward in the nation, frowns on admitting girls into varsity sports.

• It's Time for Action:

We've made our feeling on the matter quite clear. We think it's time for the high school athletic department to do something about it. Again, we repeat the insurance cost should be a secondary consideration.

When the appropriate committee assembles to make a decision on the matter, let them remember these small statistics:

A well integrated skiing program would involve at least 250 youngsters, boys and girls, with varsity status limited to the boys.

Compare the other "varsity" sports and what do you come up with—10 basketball players, nine or ten golfers, ditto for tennis, maybe 18 baseball players.

By its very nature, skiing would involve many more youngsters in varsity competition. On a given day, the five fastest youngsters would comprise "the team" in the slalom or combined. The ground rules are different from the other sports with their fixed rosters. Skiing generates numbers and large enthusiasm.

Let's hear the announcement from Kingston High that skiing will be a varsity sport in 1967-68.

The locals led all the way and broke the game open with a 15-4 edge in the fourth period sparked by the shooting of Houghtaling, Palladino and Carter.

Walter Houghtaling led the scorers with 13 points and Phil Palladino added 11.

St. Mary's has taken the Small Fry title twice since it was organized in 1965. Last year they were defeated in the semi-finals by Wappingers Falls, which later captured the title.

Childs' 674 Triple Leads Area Bowlers

Mike Childs was in the pocket all night in the Ferraro Booster League for an area leading 674 series. Childs fashioned the series off games of 215, 223, and 236 to lead his team, Barclay Knitwear, to a sweep over Shovel Tree.

The 600's were rare last night, the next one being a 610 effort by Jim Harris, also in the Booster. Maude Simmons found the range out in the Saugerties Monday Mixer with a 610. Summie Johnson's 243 finale carried him to a 609 trio in the Country Squire's League. Linn Dyer banged out an even 600 series in the Rosendale Lanes League as did Cliff Shultis in the Ferraro Booster.

M-HC Wrestlers Compete in NJC

Rockland Community College's Rich Johnson and Orange Community College's Dan Davila were the most successful of the Mid-Hudson Conference wrestlers who competed in the NJCAA national competition in Worthington, Minn., last week.

Johnson, who wrestled in the 168-pound bracket during the regular season, "sweated down" to the 160-pound class in the nationals. Rich recorded a pin and four decisions before bowing to Les Mihal of Rochester, Minn., in the final match.

The 6-5 decision was hotly contested for Mihal gained his one-point lead on a reversal late in the match. Johnson apparently turned this same trick with about two seconds left in the contest. However, the referee ruled that the contestants were off the mat and this decision cost Johnson the championship.

Davila, who wrestled at 145-pounds during most of the season, was down to 137 pounds for the nationals. Dan recorded a pin and two decisions in his first three matches. After dropping a 7-0 decision in the semifinals, Davila came back with a strong effort to claim a 5-4 verdict over Rochester State's Haywood Tewksberry in the consolation round.

Orange County's Frank Carrozza, Gary Lyons, Mike Schultis, and Jerry Carr also made the trip, as did Westchester's Rocky Mondell and Yann Tammereau, but the efforts of this sextet were largely unsuccessful.

'Heard Plot on JFK'

Informant Due For Quiz by Defense Today

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Perry Raymond Russo, who testified he heard Lee Harvey Oswald and two others plot to assassinate President John F. Kennedy, faces cross - examination today by defense lawyers.

Counsel for Clay L. Shaw, the wealthy businessman arrested by Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison on a charge of conspiring with Oswald and David W. Ferrie to murder Kennedy, put off their questions Tuesday until they could study scholastic and business records of Russo.

Mystery Thickens

Before court reopened, mystery surrounding this "confidential informant" thickened.

The riddle:

—Russo, 25, an insurance salesman from Baton Rouge, told the court he was in the apartment of David W. Ferrie here in September 1963 and listened to the three men conspire to kill the president and escape.

But two weeks ago, shortly after Ferrie died of what the coroner termed natural causes and Garrison maintained was suicide, Russo told a newsman from New Orleans television station WDSU that Ferrie never mentioned Oswald's name to him, adding, "I had never heard of Oswald until on television. . .ahh. . .the assassination."

—Russo gave detail in court of the meeting in Ferrie's apartment, saying the plot involved sacrificing one man to allow the others to make a getaway, a possible flight to Cuba, diversionary shooting and "triangulation of crossfire."

Yet in an interview earlier with a Baton Rouge television station, Russo explained he never came forth with his information before because, "I left it to professionals...when they came out with Oswald was the man. Then I forgot it."

—Russo told the court that Ferrie proposed flying the getaway plane into Mexico to refuel for a flight to Cuba. Russo said Shaw interrupted to say that as soon as the shots were fired "the world would know about it," and there would be no way to get the plane out of Mexico. Russo quoted Oswald as telling Shaw to "shut up. Leave him (Ferrie) alone. He knows what he's talking about. He's the pilot."

Only Speculation

But when Russo was asked by a newsman earlier whether he thought Ferrie might have had anything to do with the assassination, he replied, "Well, that I don't know and it would be just speculation.

"Dave Ferrie had the ability because of a keen mind and ability to drive an airplane. Now whether he would have used that is another thing...It's only conjecture."

—Russo has said he did not get in touch with Garrison until two days after Ferrie's death—when he saw a newspaper picture of Ferrie. He said he had not then heard from Garrison.

That is the date on which Garrison announced he had "solved" the case. And Russo apparently is a major witness in Garrison's case—the "confidential informant" who, according to Garrison's application for a warrant to search Shaw's house, confirmed while under influence of "truth serum" that he overheard the plot to murder Kennedy.

Other Ponderables

Other ponderables: Russo told a newsman that Ferrie jokingly posed the question of assassinating the president to him "that if he and I could do it...it could be done." In the same interview Russo said he first met Ferrie when he broke off Ferrie's friendship with another boy, Russo added, "At that time Dave made a personal threat against my life."

Kennedy was killed in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963—two months after the alleged meeting in Ferrie's apartment. The Warren Commission decided that Oswald was the lone assassin and there was no credible evidence of any conspiracy.

Only One Alive

Shaw is the only alleged conspirator still alive. Oswald was shot to death by Jack Ruby two days after the assassination and Ferrie died in bed Feb. 22.

Shaw, 54, a onetime Army major who was decorated in World War II, has denied taking part in any conspiracy. U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark said the FBI investigated Shaw late in 1963 and cleared him of any link to the assassination.

Russo was the fourth witness to testify Tuesday at the opening of the preliminary hearing for Shaw. The hearing is being held to determine whether the district attorney has sufficient cause to hold Shaw for trial.

Speaking so rapidly and indistinctly that court reporters asked him to slow down, Russo told his story with his eyes fixed on Garrison.

Union Threatens Work Stoppages In NYC Schools

NEW YORK (AP) — A teachers' union has threatened work stoppages in the city's schools in support of 79 teachers who resigned at a Bronx Junior High School to protest attack by pupil.

Dr. Nathan Brown, executive deputy superintendent of schools, said he would recommend that Dr. Bernard E. Donovan, the superintendent of schools, accept the resignations immediately unless the teachers change their minds and return to work. Donovan was in Albany Tuesday.

Half of Staff Resigns

The written resignations from more than half the staff of J.H.S. 98 were submitted to the Board of Education Tuesday several hours after the school was forced to close at noon when only 36 teachers reported for classes. Those reporting crossed an orderly picket line set up by the protesting teachers.

About 100 teachers from other Bronx schools voted to resign Friday unless the Board of Education begins a new program to curb disruptive pupils.

Supervisors Set

because the present differences in property taxing practices discourage such inter-municipal cooperation," the report states.

Discussing the cost to equalize taxes so that each property owner pays his fair share, the committee report states that the cost of assessment equalization, including propery maps, amounts to a little over one-tenth of one perecent of the total valuation of real property in the county.

By assessment equalization each property owner is assured that his own property value has been equalized with all other properties in the municipality, special district, school district and the county. Local government would benefit through a more healthful tax climate.

Claim No Change

If an individual property is now assessed at a fair assessed value and paying a fair share of taxes, there will be no change, unless revenue needs change drastically, the report says. If revenue needs stay constant, an increase in assessment level will result in a decrease in tax rates.

Good accurate property maps are the basis for a good equalization program. Without such maps the cost of equalization equalization without the benefit of good property maps is always questionable, the report notes, and the county would run the risk of having spent money for equalization that may become obsolete before it is completed.

"We feel it is urgent that this matter be given thoughtful consideration by the supervisors so that an early decision can be made on this program. The reason for this is primarily that American Air Survey, Inc., has offered the county a one-time financing plan for property map preparation that would save the county over $100,000 in financial costs, if we can come to an early decision so the county could be photographed in early spring," the committee report states.

With the report are two proposals submitted by two appraisal firms, Allied Appraisals and Cole, Layer, Trumble, comparson of alternative financial possibilites for undertakng property map and appraisal programs concurrently.

No date for the special meeting of the board has been set.

Ups Newsprint Price

MONTREAL, (AP) — Consolidated Paper Corp. Ltd. announced today an increase of $3 per ton in the price of its news print in Canada and the United States effective July 1.

"Increased costs have made the adjustment essential," a company statement said.

A company spokesman said the present price of Consolidated newsprint in Eastern Canada ranges between $125 and $135 a ton, with higher prices for more distant delivery.

The present Consolidated price at New York is $139 a ton.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved irregularly higher early today in fairly active trading.

Gains and losses of most key stocks were fractional.

Openings were delayed in Schenley Industries and Lorillard. Schenley plunged 11⅞ points Tuesday and Lorillard lost 2¼ amid rumors that their proposed merger had been called off, but this was belied by a joint announcement Tuesday night that the two companies had agreed in principle to consolidate.

Among wider moves, Avco rose about 2 points while Merck dropped about 2. Gains of about a point were made by Westinghouse Electric, Leesona and KLM airlines.

Rayonier dropped more than a point as profits were taken on its latest flurry, based on rumors of merger or takeover.

Fractional gains were made by Chrysler, Link Belt, Goodrich, Republic Steel, Commonwealth Edison and Union Carbide.

In opening blocks, Chrysler rose ⅛ to 39⅝ on 9,500 shares and General Tire lost ¾ at 31 on 8,500.

Sperry Rand opened on 5,000 shares, off ⅛ at 33⅝.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped .7 to 317.3, Tuesday.

See Compulsory Health Plan as Business Threat

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)- Central New York business leaders criticized Gov. Rockefeller's proposal for a compulsory health insurance plan today and said it would seriously jeopardize the state's business climate.

John G. MacAllister, vice president of the Manufacturers Association of Syracuse, said the root of the problem lay in the state's controversial Medicaid program, which he said was destroying individual incentive.

Among 35

MacAllister was among about 35 witnesses who submitted testimony to a public hearing by the Joint Legislative Committee on Public Health and Medicare.

The hearing was the last of four scheduled by the committee.

"The proposed compulsory health insurance bill, to which the Manufacturers Association is opposed in principle, is like the Berlin Wall," MacAllister said.

He said it was "an autocratic attempt to force employees and employers to obtain and keep compulsory health insurance when the provisions of the medicaid law encourage just the opposite."

The answer, he said, was not to set "up a Berlin Wall to prevent escape, but to go to the heart of the matter and amend the State Medicaid law....to provide incentives for people to retain and obtain group health insurance...and to provide incentives to keep their medical costs as low as possible."

Cites American Way

"Let us not abandon the traditional American way of adequate help for those who help themselves, but without enticing self - respecting, self - supporting people into becoming chairty cases and wards of the state," he said.

In other testimony, Erwin G. Schultz, executive vice president of the Greater Syracuse Chamber of Commerce, said that "since New York will be the only state in the union with such a law, our comparative economic relationship with other states will be adversely affected."

Schultz said 92.6 per cent of of the state's eligible work force already was covered by some form of hospital insurance.

He said the "psychological and economic impact of this law must be carefully examined to determine the effect on future job-creating business investment in this state."

Termed Ludicrous

In addition, he said, "it seems ludicrous to hastily pass yet another law concerning medical care when last year's legislation on medicaid is still in its developmental stages."

He said there are those who feel the real purpose of the proposed law was to alleviate "the financial burden of medicaid."

Earl N. Hurd of Syracuse, director of personnel for Rockwell Manufacturing Co., said he had been forced to the conclusion that "this is a political bill, a political maneuver."

"We must conclude that this bill is under consideration only to relieve the anticipated rise in the cost of medicaid."

Edward A. Aksel of Syracuse, executive secretary of the Central New York Hospital Association, said hospitals in his area at present took no position on the proposal, but wished "to create public awareness of the effect of such legislation" on hospital costs.

He said the program could increase hospital operating costs in Central New York by as much as $2.5 million annually.

Check 4th Junker Fire

Local firemen Tuesday night checked a fourth incendiary fire within two weeks in junked cars piled in a lot off 59 Hasbrouck Avenue and doused another in the Locust Avenue area.

Units from Central Station, the Wicks and Union companies answered a call at 10:17 p. m. to the Hasbrouck Avenue property owned by the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency. Some 12 junked cars were reported involved. A hydrant stream was used.

One junked car was reported afire in the Locust Avenue area at 6:39 p. m. Cordts Hose Company responded and doused the blaze with a booster line. Deputy Chief Julius E. Buchholtz was in charge on both calls.

District Leader Commends Lions In Recent Visit

BERNARD KEILES

Kingston Lions Club was honered at its regular Tuesday luncheon meeting this week by a visit from District Governor Bernard Keiles of South Fallsburgh.

As governor of the Hudson Valley District 20-0, Keiles is responsible for 56 area Lions clubs. During his annual official visit at the Governor Clinton Hotel, he presented a picture of Lions founder Melvin Jones to Kingston Lions Club, and made note of the outstanding contribution of Alexander Yosman as Secretary of the club with the presentation of a personal gift. Keiles complimented the Kingston club for the outstanding work of its blind committee, and made a special request that Kingston Lions undertake as a project to conduct a clinic for the detection of glaucoma this year.

Keiles also announced the second annual mid-winter conference at the Pines Hotel, South Fallsburgh, March 17-19. Robert Simontacchi of Crockett, Calif., will be the guest of honor. He is presently director of Lions International and travels the country as an ambassador of good will from Lions headquarters in Chicago, Ill.

Prior to the address by the district governor, the club members heard an evaluation of last year's Lions Exposition by Raymond Hubbard, assistant professor of business at the Ulster County Community College. Professor Hubbard's students last year attended the annual show at the State Armory and prepared a critical analysis of the affair from the point of view of the audience attending, and the businesses exhibiting.

These findings were presented to the membership along with suggestions by Professor Hubbard.

Lift Albania Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department ban on travel by Americans to Albania has been lifted after 15 years.

Removal of the Communist-ruled Balkan nation from the restricted list was announced Tuesday. Red China, North Korea, North Vietnam and Cuba are still off limits.

By its action, the United States is saying it has no objections to Americans going to Albania, but this doesn't necessarily mean Albania is going to relax its own tough restrictions on who it lets in.

Presents Double Jeopardy Theory In Powell Case

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legal-minded House members said today if Adam Clayton Powell is re-elected and the House again moves to exclude him, it might violate the double jeopardy provision of the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution.

That provision says no person shall "be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb."

Legal Question

It poses one in a mass of legal questions surrounding the Powell case.

Powell has been punished once by being denied the seat he won through election. Would another exclusion vote amount to a second punishment for the New York Democrat's same alleged offenses?

Some congressmen argue that the action excluding Powell was for the two-year life of the 90th Congress, which convened in January. They say another exclusion vote merely would be a reaffirmation of the original action.

But others say the House ban relates only to Powell' selection in 1966. To exclude or otherwise punish him if he again is elected, they contend, would amount to a second punishment for the same causes since no new charges have been raised against him.

Will Win Easily

The general feeling today in the House is that Powell will easily win the special election on April 11 to fill the vacancy in the 18th New York District resulting from the House's refusal to seat him.

But re-election in itself would not automatically terminate the Harlem Democrat's federal court suit to force the House to seat him, even if the House decided to let him in. There still would be the matter of his legal claim for back pay.

Powell was refused his seat because of his personal conduct in the handling of public funds and his defiance of a New York court order in a defamation suit which he lost.

A special committee headed by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., held that Powell met the constitutional qualifications of age, citizenship and residency and should be seated but punished.

Refused to Follow

But a majority of the House refused to follow its leaders and decided that the Harlem preacher didn't measure up to the moral qualifications it demands of its members. It acted under a provision of the Constitution which says each House of Congress shall be the judge of the qualifications of its members.

The House Tuesday hired its own lawyer to uphold its position that the courts have no jurisdiction over who does or does not qualify for House membership. Bruce Bromley, New York attorney and former judge, was given the job. His fee wasn't disclosed.

Asks Contempt Action

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Vince Edwards is seeking to have his ex-wife, actress Kathy Kersh, punished for contempt of court. A hearing has been set for Friday.

In a document filed in Superior Court Tuesday, Edwards said Miss Kersh makes it inconvenient for him to visit their 14-month-old daughter, Devara.

Edwards, 37, said that last Sunday, after giving 24 hours' notice as required by the court, he telephoned his ex-wife and said he was coming to visit Dera.

According to Edwards, Miss Kersh told him: "I have made other plans. The world does not revolve around you."

Hughes Buys Hotel

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Multimillionaire industrialist Howard Hughes is the new owner of the Desert Inn Hotel on the Las Vegas strip, informed sources say.

Hughes, who shuns publicity, hasn't appeared in public for more than 10 years. However, sources say he has been living in the Desert Inn's penthouse since last December. His wife, actress Jean Peters, is with him.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING....

Never Get Stampeded Into Buying Stocks

Q) "My husband is ill and on Medicare. We have $6,000 in series H bonds; American Telephone; Union Carbide; $13,000 in savings. Our income is sufficent. There is much talk about buying stock, we wonder if we should add immediately to our share holdings — and if so, what?" — D. R.

A) Please accept my sincere sympathy on your husband's illness. I would never allow myself to be stampeded into buying stocks simply because there is so much talk about them. Very frequently that is an indication of too great public participation and a signal to watch your step. I'm first going to suggest some realignment of your present holdings.

American Telephone is satisfactory for moderate yield and growth. Union Carbide is a good stock but it has shown little rise in dividends or price over the past ten years. I advise you to switch into Corn Products which has a better record of increased dividends and appreciation during the same period. If you can afford some lesser return, I would invest no more than $5,000 of cash savings in equal dollar amounts of Avon Products and Consolidated Foods. These changes would strengthen your position materially as regards long-term inflation.

Q) "I have money from which I need to derive the greatest possible income. I am too old for growth stocks. I could buy an insurance annuity which would make monthly payments at the rate of 8¼% per cent annually. Some people don't like annuities. Why? I would appreciate your suggestion." — G. B.

A) Some people don't like annuities because they are fixed as to income and offer no protection against inflation. Others have heirs and are concerned about leaving an estate. If you are not restrained by either of these considerations, I advise you to buy a straight life annuity. The rate of return you mention is far higher than you can get from any other safe form of investment.

Say New Avenue To Settlement In Vietnam Found

NEW YORK (AP) — A new development in the search for a settlement of the Vietnam war was reported at the United Nations Tuesday after a 90-minute talk between U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg and Secretary-General U Thant, the New York Times said today.

Times correspondent Raymond Daniell said the new element was disclosed by a U.N. source "who is close to the secretary-general," but that details could not be disclosed.

Thant, who recently returned from a visit to his native Burma where he met informally with North Vietnamese representatives, also met Tuesday with delegates from the Soviet Union, Poland and Canada.

The Soviet Union was cochairman with Britain of the 1954 Geneva Conference which ended the Indochina war. Canada and Poland, along with India, are members of the International Control Commission set up by the 1954 conference to supervise the agreement.

Goldberg told reporters after the meeting that he and Thant had "continued our exchange of views on Vietnam, which is a matter of vital continuing interest to both of us." He said that to give details would not serve the cause of peace.

Faces Manslaughter

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A 24-year-old man was arrested today and charged with first-degree manslaughter in the stabbing of a father of two during an argument.

Thomas I. Mulroy was taken into custody in a westside apartment.

Police said Angelo Galassi, 26, who was killed Sunday, had become involved in an argument with another man in a tavern and that Mulroy injected himself in the dispute.

They said Galassi was stabbed when a group of men surrounded him on a street near the tavern. He staggered less than two blocks and collapsed in an alley.

Galassi lived at 143 Jersey St. Mulroy has no permanent address.

Only Three Show At Taxi Drivers Meet on Wages

Discussion of wage rates paid local taxi drivers scheduled for Tuesday night at the Moose Lodge quarters, Prince Street, failed to materialize after only three men appeared, it was reported today.

It was also learned today that the city's fleet operators, who were recently guaranteed fare raises, noted a drop in business after they were first announced, and are only now experiencing an uptrend toward the normal.

Other problems of the fleet operators, however, were cited today, and if these are not offset, some may stop operating.

Francis H. Fautur, who operates from 27 Clinton Avenue, one of the city's larger fleet operators, cited an insurance problem which could bring major trouble. He noted an insurance increase this year of "over $1,700" and said the annual insurance cost has now gone over $7,000.

Recent fare increases, he said, basically 10 cents a trip, may not offset this insurance and other operational costs enough to maintain profit in the business, and he noted that already "some feel like giving up."

Present rates range generally from 85 cents to $1.50 a trip, cents. Extra charges are permitted for longer trips.

As announced Tuesday, the meeting of drivers was attempted to raise their wage rates to which some felt they were entitled after fare increases, but apparently the majority of drivers were not interested in attending.

Officials Agree On Budget and Program Plans

The publicity committee of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors agreed to partially subsidize a resort promotion program designed to bring vacationists and tourists to area hotels, motels and other establishments this spring and summer.

The outlay of funds by the county is intended as an inducement to resort operators to join in the effort by making token investments for themselves. Combined, the space purchased in three major newspapers would be greater than most hotels and resorts would be able to purchase by themselves.

More effort, more exposure, more results are thus assured because the county "meets the resort community halfway," it was pointed out.

All members of the committee, regardless of party, hailed the plan drawn up by Michael C.

SEN. THOMAS DODD

No Takers Yet On Cash Refunds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas J. Dodd says he has had no takers on his offer of cash refunds to persons who may have bought tickets to testimonials for him under the impression the money would be used only for his campaign expenses.

That was the Connecticut Democrat's reply to a reporter's question as the Senate ethics committee indicated it is nearing the end of its presentation of evidence in the investigation of Dodd's financial affairs.

To Call Three

Benjamin R. Fern, the bipartisan committees chief counsel, said as of now he plans to call only three more witnesses.

Two, Terry Golden and Michael V. O'Hare, are former employes of Dodd. The third, Edward Lockett, was hired to ghostwrite for the senator a book about subversion.

The committee heard six witnesses Tuesday, including political allies of the senator who testified that funds they helped raise for him at dinners, receptions and other events were for Dodd to use as he saw fit.

They said this was the case despite a resolution and letters linking the fund-raising to political campaign activites.

The principal speakers at the events staged in Dodds behalf were President Johnson—then the vice president—and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

2 Face Burglary Charge as Crash Ends Rt. 23 Chase

An extensive manhunt for two men, who were pursued at high speeds from Hudson to the Town of Catskill by three policemen from the Columbia County city, ended early today when the men were apprehended by authorities.

Leeds Trooper D. F. Sager said Gabriel C. Hodge, 23, and Frank Bostic, 21, both of Albany, were held in connection with a burglary at the Kritzman-Maskin Inc., clothiers on Warren Street, Hudson.

Both Injured

Both men were injured after the 1962 Thunderbird driven by Hodge was involved in a mishap on Route 23, Town of Catskill. The pair took off on foot and a manhunt was conducted for them by State Police, Hudson Police and village authorities.

Hodge and Bostic were taken into custody some distance from the scene of the accident. Both were injured and treated at Greene County Memorial Hospital. Later they were transferred to Albany Medical Center Hospital where they were immediately placed under police guard.

Trooper Sager reported officers Robert Parlman, Frank Graziano and Carmine Piro of the Hudson Police Department pursued the car which subsequently was put out of condition after skidding off Route 23 after the breakin at Hudson.

The chase continued along highways, across the Rip Van Winkle bridge to the point of the mishap.

Several Assisted

Directing the manhunt were Captain G. R. Abare, Zone Sergeant C. J. Crommie, Troopers J. W. Miller, A. G. Parker, J. R. Canfield and Donald Hall, and Catskill Village police and the three Hudson officers

The men were apprehended by R. L. Motala and S. J. VanGura of the Leeds State Police.

IRISH 'BANK NIGHT'—Pete Mathews, well-known area banjo player who claims Ireland as his birthplace, will be the featured entertainer in the lobby of Ulster County Savings Bank Friday night, March 17, starting at 6:45. "Naturally," Howard C. St. John, bank president, said "Pete will feature popular Irish tunes.

2 Persons Hurt In City Mishaps

Two persons were injured in a two-car mishap on Broadway at Field Court shortly after 3 p. m. Tuesday and a driver was cited for a violation after another at 11:15 p. m. on Broadway at Pine Grove Avenue.

Both drivers reported injuries after the afternoon mishap. They were James Scudier, 56, of 105 Pearl Street, who was to be examined at Benedictine Hospital for possible neck and internal injuries, and Maureen A. Grant, 20, of 121 Fair Street, who was to be treated by a doctor for a head injury. Officers George Barringer and Howard Kelly investigated.

Dennis Landerway, 23, of 10 Tompkins Street, one of the drivers in the night mishap was charged with driving at a speed not reasonable and prudent. He is due in city court Friday.

Police said the other car was driven by Robert T. Bailey Jr., 20, of 240 West Chestnut Street. Officers Douglas Longto and Henry Sira investigated.

Install Pickets Inside

Ever try using a picket fence indoors? Picture a section used as a headboard in a child's bedroom, painted yellow and teamed with a yellow and white checked bedspread. Or how about picket fencing for a wainscot in child's playroom or a recreation room—yellow again over a wall painted mocha, or turquoise against avocado, raspberry over frosting pink, or black on white for a sophisticated treatment in an adult's den or party room.

Ohio, with 89, leads the United States in number of harness race tracks.

Rosendale Man Lifelong Devotee Of Music Field

Peter Mathews, well-known area banjo player who claims Ireland as his birthplace, is scheduled to be a featured entertainer in the lobby of the Ulster County Savings Bank Friday night, March 17, starting at 6:45 p. m. According to bank president Howard C. St. John, the program will feature popular Irish tunes to celebrate St. Patrick's Day.

Mathews was born in Trim County Meath, Ireland. He was educated in Irish National Schools and St. Michael's Prep before coming to this country in 1929. He has been a lifelong devotee of music having played in many Irish bands and orchestra's. He was a member of the famed Mac Namara's band for a period of 15 years.

In the early 1930's he was a member of the broadcasting band of New York. He was also heard over the airwaves of WWRL and WINS during those years.

During his days in boot camp while serving in the U. S. Navy, he was a regular Sunday participant in the weekly war time program, "Sons of Sampson."

In recent years Mathews has been recognized as a leading entertainer in the Kiwanis Capers, the March of Dimes Show, Veterans hospitals, the Home for the Aged and other charity causes.

Mathews resides with his wife and five sons in Rosendale.
